

FINAL AGREEMENT OF "BIG THREE" NAVAL POWERS ON 5-5-3 PROPOSAL OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCED

Killer Hunted in Vain After Downtown Holdup

DETECTIVE SLAIN AND GRAHAM WEST BADLY WOUNDED

Every Officer in Atlanta Warned to Be Look-out for Man Who Robbed Jewelry Store.

ALL ROADS PATROLLED TO PREVENT ESCAPE

Downtown Atlanta Deeply Stirred as Hundreds Hear Shooting and See Chase After Slayer.

Somewhere in Atlanta, a killer is loose. On his hands is the blood of Irby C. Walker, a Pinkerton detective, dead in the performance of his duty. On his conscience is the fact that B. Graham West, comptroller of the city of Atlanta, is desperately wounded. On his mind is the thought that he is being hunted every minute of every day and every second of every night, as a ravening wolf or a mad-dog is hunted. In his pocket is the diamond bauble, for possession of which he defied laws of God and man, and on his hip is the murderous gun with which he terrorized a crowd of thousands of Christmas shoppers in the heart of Atlanta's business district yesterday shortly after noon.

Policemen, assigned to the case—and that includes every officer of the Atlanta force, and every private detective in the city—declare that the man is still in Atlanta. Within a few minutes after the time that he had grasped the gem in the Nat Kaiser jewelry store on Peachtree street, and had made his murderous way to safety through the Kimball house, every exit from Atlanta was closely guarded.

Lights Grow Dim And Street Cars Stop 35 Minutes

Trouble Results From Break- down in Two Big Under- ground Cables.

Hungry Atlantans who poured from office buildings and stores late Thursday afternoon were given a decidedly unpleasant jolt when overloaded trolleys suddenly came to a dead halt and street and building lights throughout the city grew so dim that a pale winter moon gained the ascendancy over them and flooded what a few moments before had been the city's "white way" with the most natural illumination it has seen for years.

For 35 minutes the crowds swarmed and kicked their heels impatiently, while overhead the moon smiled at its temporary victory over man-made lighting apparatus. The city's "return to nature" was not pleasant to motorists, either, for traffic promptly jammed at all busy intersections, and the Georgia Railway and Power company came in for its full peace-time quota of "cussing."

And the power company was no more to blame for the termination of all electrical activities than the man who is struck by lightning is to blame for being where the bolt fell. The entire trouble resulted from a breakdown in two of the big underground cables stretching from the Davis street to the Alabama street plants.

As soon as the unexplained trouble developed, the company's reserve

CRIME WAVE HERE KEEPS SPREADING, DESPITE POLICE

Twenty-Six Persons Report They Have Been Made Victims in One Day by Violators of Law.

OWNER OF MILK DAIRY HELD UP IN OWN STORE

Woman Surprises Thief in Her Room, But He Escapes, Taking Her Money With Him.

Featured by the sensational attempt of a lone bandit to hold up a jewelry store in the very heart of Atlanta with thousands of Christmas shoppers on every side, which culminated in the killing of one man and the wounding of another, the wave of crime which has swept over the city for two or three weeks past continued to spread Thursday, when 26 persons reported to the police that they had been victimized by yeggmen, confidence men or sneak thieves.

The tragedy which attracted a great crowd to Five Points was by no means the only sensation to come to light during the day.

Miss Mary Nale, of 143 Spring street, reported to the police that Wednesday night she surprised a burglar in her room with her pocketbook open in his hand. Miss Nale screamed and the thief, who was described as a young white boy, dashed through an open window and made his escape with $22 which was in the purse.

Entering the front door and drawing a revolver, an unidentified negro forced H. R. Hariston, proprietor of a milk dairy at 262 Courtland street, to throw up his hands, while the cash register was rifled and its contents, about $45 in cash, were taken.

The negro, unmasked and alone, entered while Mr. Hariston was preparing to close up his business for the day. The robber, accomplishing his purpose, ran through the door into the street and escaped.

Police Force Inadequate.

Discussing the crime situation with a Constitution reporter Thursday, Chief of Police James L. Beavers declared that "precautionary measures of a nature sufficiently strong to cure the situation are impossible with the present inadequate police force."

Chief Beavers denied that he had stated to local afternoon newspapers that Atlanta was not in the grip of a crime wave.

"I did not make any such statement," said the chief. "My opinion

ATLANTA HEARING ON RURAL CREDITS SET FOR JANUARY

Congressional Commission Will Sit Here for Two Days to Hear Southern Views.

SHORT-TIME CREDITS FOR FARMERS, OBJECT

Will Also Hold Hearings in St. Paul and Kansas City Before Ending the Probe.

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMAN,
Constitution Bureau,
St. Paul, Minn.

Washington, December 15.—(By Constitution Bureau Wire.)—Through the instrumentality of Congressman Gordon Lee, of Georgia, one of the members, the joint congressional commission on short-time rural credits decided today to hold a public hearing in Atlanta for two days during the week following January 10, the exact date yet to be fixed. This hearing will summon farmers, bankers and the heads of agricultural colleges, extension work, etc., from all the southern states, with the purpose of determining upon some definite legislative plan by which short-time credits can be made more available to the producing classes. The law creating this committee was incorporated in the general agriculture bill, passed in the sixty-sixth congress. The specific paragraph from the bill follows:

"There is hereby constituted a joint

NO DECISION YET BY DAIL EIREANN ON PEACE TREATY

Public Session, With Ratification Vote, Is Not Expected Until Saturday at Earliest.

DEBATE OVER DETAILS BEHIND CLOSED DOORS

But Both Sides in Controversy Will Welcome Chance to Explain Views in Public.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Dublin, December 15.—The second private session of the dail eireann today, having under consideration the Anglo-Irish treaty, lasted until nearly 8 o'clock this evening, and adjourned without reaching a decision. It will reassemble in private session tomorrow at 11 o'clock, to continue its deliberations.

The most that can be said tonight is there is a strong possibility that the public session, at which it is hoped to take a vote on ratification of the treaty, may not be held until Saturday. If matters should progress no further tomorrow, however, then they have today, it was thought likely that even Saturday's sitting would be private and that the public session, therefore, would be postponed until next week.

Want Public Hearing.

The interpretation placed on this is that it is felt to be undesirable to debate the controversial points in detail in the presence of newspaper men and that public sessions, of course, would be arranged beforehand. The delegates to the London negotiations and some of their supporters are said to be determined to afford themselves an opportunity of stating in public, to the dail eireann, and through the dail to the country, the reasons why they recommend acceptance of the treaty.

The opponents of the agreement are equally anxious to explain their ob-

REED IS CAUSTIC IN SENATE SPEECH AGAINST NEW PACT

Missouri Senator Calls the Four-Power Pacific Treaty "Gold Brick" and "U. S.-Jap Alliance."

ALSO SCORES PLANNED
REDUCTION IN NAVIES

Says 5-5-3 Plan Makes Britain Absolute Master of the Seas for the Next Ten Years.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, December 15.—Another attack upon the four-power Pacific treaty was made in the senate late today by Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, who characterized it as a "gold brick," and "American-Japanese alliance."

Mr. Reed also turned on the American navy reduction proposals which, coupled with the four-power treaty, he declared, made Great Britain "absolute master of the seven seas for ten years." The combination of the treaty and a reduced navy, he declared, was a "dangerous concession, going to the entire limit of prudence."

"In substance and effect," he added, "it binds us never to have a navy greater than Britain. It concedes to Japan a navy out of all proportion to her wealth and population."

Calls It Genious.

The "5-5-3" proposal submitted by Secretary Hughes was described by Mr. Reed as so generous to Great Britain and Japan that he could not but wonder whether it had not come from the British government itself.

At any rate, he said, it was so generous and America had displayed such altruism that the United States ought not to be asked "to pay the price of foregoing the advantage she now has."

More to Come.

"She could have kept on and become sole master of the seas, but she chose to forego that advantage. Now, it appears she is allowing the plan for a reduction of armament to become the pack horse upon whose back is to be carried a quadruple alliance in the interests of Britain and Japan in the Orient, and to have the United States underwrite in the blood of her sons the ambitions and avarice of Great Britain and Japan in the southern seas."

Mr. Reed did not complete his discussion of the subject before the senate adjourned. He announced that having made his "preliminary statement," he would be prepared tomorrow to analyze the "iniquities" of the four-power agreement.

JAPANESE ACCEPT OFFER BY CHINA TO BUY RAILROAD

53,000,000 Gold German Marks, Plus Improvements, Minus Deterioration, Is Sum Offered.

ACCEPTANCE SUBJECT TO TOKIO'S APPROVAL

Deal Will Settle Long Dispute Over Kiao Chow Line on Shantung Peninsula.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, December 15.—Subject to Tokyo's approval, the Japanese delegation today accepted the Chinese offer to pay 53,000,000 gold German marks for the Kiao Chow Tsinanfu railroad in Shantung, plus what Japan has made in permanent improvements, but less deterioration.

When the conversations between the two delegations was renewed this afternoon, the Chinese offered to buy the railroad outright in cash, but the Japanese, it was said, raised questions as to why this course was proposed, pointing out that all other roads in China had been built under the aid of foreign loans. The Chinese delegates replied that the Chinese consortium was ready to finance the restoration of the railroad, and China's desire was to make use of this in order to do away with "foreign control."

Mr. Hanlraha, of the Japanese delegation, said after the meeting that satisfactory progress had been made toward a settlement of the Shantung question, but would give no details. From the Chinese, however, it was learned that after the provisional acceptance of the Chinese financial offer for complete Chinese control over the railroad, the discussion centered on the mode of payment. No decision was reached and the discussion will be continued tomorrow.

The amount agreed upon virtually is the valuation placed on the road, exclusive of the adjacent mines, by the reparations commission set up under the treaty of Versailles, and which Japan is to pay Germany.

The question of coal mines and certain iron ore fields involved in the disputed railroad remains to be settled, but according to the Chinese, probably will not be reached until the method of payment of the road proper is agreed upon.

She Slew Doctor For an Operation Causing Sterility

Mrs. Raizen Now Admits Motive for Killing of Dr. Glickstein.

New York, December 15.—Revealing more and more of the anguish which she said at last became unbearable and drove her to take a human life, Mrs. Lillian S. Raizen tonight supplied an added motive for sending a bullet through the heart of Dr. Abraham Glickstein in his Brooklyn office last Saturday.

This, the young toy-maker's wife confessed, was that during the six years of their intimacy Dr. Glickstein had performed an operation which had rendered her incapable of motherhood. Only after months of married life with Raizen, to whom she was married last May, she said, did she realize the full extent of her misfortune, which inflamed in her the desire for vengeance on the author of her un-happiness.

This disclosure on the part of the young woman who is waiting trial on a charge of first degree murder, was followed by the information from another source that her trial would be notable for the introduction of ideas and phrases unfamiliar to legal terminology—her alleged "vengeance complex" her "murder obsession"—words borrowed from the lexicon of the psychoanalyst.

This was predicted by Dr. Samuel A. Tannebaum, the neurologist, who advised Mrs. Raizen to go south for a change when, he said, he thought his patient's nerves had been strained to the breaking point by her sufferings.

JAPAN TO RETAIN MUTSU, WHILE U. S. GETS 2 NEW SHIPS

Great Britain Will Build Two New Superdreadnaughts, But Will Send Four to Junkpile.

RELATIVE STRENGTHS REMAIN UNCHANGED

Pacific Fortifications to Remain in Status Quo. Special Treaty on Subject Is Probable.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, December 15.—Agreement of the "big three" naval powers on the "5-5-3" naval ratio plan was officially announced late today at the state department.

Under the plan Japan retains the superdreadnaught Mutsu instead of the old battleship Settsu and the United States retains two additional ships of the Maryland class instead of the Delaware and North Dakota.

Great Britain as an equivalent will build two superdreadnaughts similar to the Maryland and Mutsu types, but of greater tonnage, scrapping four old battleships of the original retained list suggested by the American plan. The agreement includes a status quo understanding on fortifications of the Pacific islands in open waters and exclusive of Hawaii and islands off the Japanese, Australian and New Zealand coasts.

Final Tonnage Ratio.

With these exceptions, the agreement coincides with the original American plan of limitations, but questions as to submarine, possible modification of the ten-year naval holiday, and tonnage allowances in aircraft carriers and other auxiliary types are reserved for consideration by the new naval committee of fifteen which held its first session today.

The agreement also provides for a maximum limit in tonnage of capital ships to be built in replacement at 37,000 tons, American measurement, and for an ultimate tonnage ratio between the three powers at the end of the ten-year holiday as follows:

Great Britain, 525,000 tons; the United States, 525,000 tons; Japan, 315,000 tons.

The original American proposals fixed a maximum limit of 35,000 tons and provided for 500,000 tons each for the United States and Great Britain and 300,000 tons for Japan.

Britain to Scrap Four.

The ships of the Maryland class to be retained by the United States will be the Colorado and Washington. The ships to be scrapped by Great Britain to compensate for her two new battleships will be the King George V, the Erin, the Centurion and the Ajax.

The official announcement said the agreement was "dependent on a suitable agreement with France and Italy."

FULTON PENSIONS ARE READY TODAY

Ordinary Thomas Jeffries Announces He Will Begin Payments—Checks Mailed by Treasurer.

Money to pay confederate pensioners in Fulton county has been received and payment will begin this morning, according to announcement made last night by Ordinary Thomas H. Jeffries.

He urges that all soldier pensioners call at his office on Friday and widows of soldiers are asked to come on Saturday.

All checks for confederate pensioners in all counties in Georgia were mailed out by 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, only a few hours after the money to pay the pensions had been paid over to John W. Lindsey, commissioner of pensions, by Governor Thomas W. Hardwick. The total amount to be paid pensioners of eleven classes is approximately $1,900,000.

Shortly before noon Thursday a delegation of officials of the Citizens and Southern bank called on Governor Hardwick and formally delivered to the governor a certified check covering the proceeds of the recent purchase by the bank of $2,700,000 worth of deferred Western and Atlantic railroad rental warrants. "Opportunities" Greeted With Generous Response

First Two Cases Cared For Almost Before Ink Had Dried on Paper. Charity Splendid One.

Atlanta, as always, has greeted with a fine and generous response the annual appeal of the Associated Charities for the ten families of the city most needful and most deserving of year-round aid.

Wednesday morning opportunity No. 1 was presented. This was a family, the mother of which was left in a dazed condition by her husband's death. Her only support was a boy of 15, who has worked night and day to feed and clothe the three smaller children and his suffering mother. Six dollars and a half a week, or $336 for the year, was needed.

By Thursday morning it was subscribed.

Another case cared for. Thursday morning, opportunity No. 2 was presented—an old lady, who lives alone, and struggles for a livelihood by mending and selling old sacks. Four dollars and a half a week was needed to relieve her mind of anxiety for a whole year.

Before the ink had dried on the paper that printed her appeal, Mrs. Sam E. Finley had subscribed the entire amount.

as to their naval ratios, but that the ratio as between the three big powers was not to be affected by the French and Italian negotiations.

Under the agreement during the ten years the United States will have eighteen capital ships aggregating 525,550 tons; Great Britain twenty ships aggregating 552,050, and Japan ten ships aggregating 313,300 tons. This represents a total of 56,000 tons for Great Britain more than the United States, which was allowed, the announcement said, because of the age of the older British battleships.

United States Ships Doomed.
Under the final arrangement the United States will scrap the same number of capital ships as proposed in the original American plan. The thirty American vessels to be scrapped under the original proposal had a tonnage of 825,000, and those to be scrapped under the present plan have a tonnage of 820,000.

Japan will scrap the same number as under the original plan, but the amended list substituting the old Seto for the new Mutsu makes the total tonnage to be scrapped by Japan 435,000 tons in place of 448,000 tons in the original plan.

Great Britain, which was to have scrapped 19 capital ships under the original plan, is to give up 23 under the revised arrangement, but will build two new ships. The original British tonnage to be scrapped under the original proposal was 552,050 and under the revised proposal will be 550,000.

Total Ships 68.
The total number of capital ships to be retained by the three powers under the first American figures was 56, and under the revised figures will be 68. The total tonnage to be scrapped was 1,878,043 tons in the original plan and is 1,861,643 tons in the revised plan.

It was indicated in the official announcement that no further modifications will be made in the American ten-year naval holiday plan except as may be necessitated in arranging the relative position of the French and Italian navies in the reduction plan.

It was announced that the naval agreement, including that on naval bases and fortifications probably would be incorporated in a new treaty signed by the five powers. No plenary session of the conference, it was stated, would be held to consider the naval agreement until the entire subject, including auxiliary ships, was settled.

Under the agreement, it was officially estimated that the United States would save from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 over the original proposal of the American government.

Official Statement.
The naval agreement was made public in the following announcement to the subcommittee on naval armament:

"The following are the points of agreement that have been reached in the course of the negotiations between the United States of America, Great Britain and Japan, with respect to their capital fighting ships:
"An agreement has been reached between the three powers—the United States of America, the British Empire and Japan, on the subject of naval ratios. The proposal of the American government that the ratio should be 5-5-3 is accepted. It is agreed that with respect to fortifications and naval bases in the Pacific region, including Hong Kong, the status quo shall be maintained, that is, that there shall be no increase in these fortifications and naval bases except that this restriction shall not apply to the Hawaiian Islands, Australia, New Zealand and the islands composing Japan proper, or, of course, to the coasts of the United States and Canada, as to which the respective powers retain their entire freedom.

"The Japanese government has found special difficulty with respect to the Mutsu, as that is their newest ship. In order to retain the Mutsu, Japan has proposed to scrap the Seto, one of her older ships, which, under the American proposal, was to have been retained. This would leave the number of Japan's capital ships the same, that is, ten, as under the American proposal. The retention of the Mutsu by Japan in place of the Seto makes a difference in net tonnage of 13,600 tons, making the total tonnage of Japan's capital ships 313,300 tons, as against 299,700 tons under the original American proposal.

To Preserve Ratio.
"While the difference in tonnage is small, there would be considerable difference in efficiency, as the retention of the Mutsu would give Japan two (2) post-Jutland ships of the latest design.
"In order to meet this situation, and to preserve the relative strength on the basis of the agreed ratio, it is agreed that the United States shall complete two (2) of the ships in course of construction, that is, the Colorado and the Washington, which are now about 90 per cent completed, and scrap two (2) of the older ships, that is, the North Dakota and the Delaware, which, under the original proposal, were to be retained. This would leave the United States with the same number of capital ships, that is, eighteen, as under the original proposal, with a tonnage of 525,550 tons, as against 552,050 tons, as originally proposed. Three (3) of the ships would be post-Jutland ships of the Maryland type.

"As the British have no post-Jutland ships, except one Hood, the construction of which is only partly completed, it is agreed that in order to maintain proper relative strength the British government may construct two (2) new ships, not to exceed 35,000 tons each, that is, calculating the tonnage according to the original standards of measurement, or according to American calculations, the equivalent of 37,000 tons each. It is agreed that the British government shall, on the completion of these two (2) new ships, scrap four (4) of their ships of the King George V type, that is, the Erin, King George V, Centurion and Ajax, which were to have been retained under the original American proposal. This would leave the British capital ships in number 20, as against 22 under the American proposal. Taking the tonnage of the two (2) new ships according to American calculation, it would amount to 74,000, and the four ships scrapped having a tonnage of 90,400 tons, there would be a reduction in net tonnage of 22,400 tons, leaving the British tonnage of capital ships 582,050, instead of 604,450. This would give the British as against the United States an excess tonnage of 56,200 tons, which is deemed to be fair, in view of the age of the ships of the Royal Sovereign and the Queen Elizabeth types.

Replacement Limits.
"The maximum limitation for the tonnage of ships to be constructed in replacement is to be fixed at 35,000 tons, that is, according to British standards of measurement, or, according to American calculations, the equivalent of 37,000 tons, in order to give accommodation to these changes. The maximum tonnage of capital ships is fixed, for the purpose of replacement, on the basis of American standards of calculation, as follows:
"United States, 525,000 tons.
"Great Britain, 525,000 tons.
"Japan, 313,000 tons.

"Comparing this arrangement with the original American proposal, it will be observed that the United States is to scrap 30 ships as proposed, save that there will be scrapped 13 of the 15 ships under construction and 17 instead of 15 of the older ships.
"The total tonnage of the American capital ships to be scrapped under the original proposal, including the tonnage of ships in construction, if completed, was stated to be 845,740 tons. Under the present arrangement the tonnage of the 30 ships to be scrapped taking that of the ships in construction if completed, would be 820,540 tons.

Japan Gains.
"The number of the Japanese ships to be retained remains the same, as under the original proposal. The total tonnage of the ships to be scrapped by Japan under the original American proposal, taking the tonnage of new ships when completed, was stated to be 448,000 tons. The total tonnage of the ships to be scrapped under the present arrangement is 435,323 tons.
"Under the original proposal Great Britain was to scrap 19 capital ships (including certain pre-dreadnaughts already scrapped) whereas under the present arrangement she will scrap four more, or a total of 23. The total tonnage of ships to be scrapped by Great Britain, including the tonnage of the four Hoods, to which the proposal referred as laid down, if completed, was stated to be 552,050 tons. The corresponding total of scrapped ships under the new arrangement will be 22,600 tons more, or 574,650 tons.
"Under the American proposal there were to be scrapped 66 capital fighting ships built and building, with a total tonnage (taking ships laid down as completed) of 1,818,043 tons. Under the present arrangement, on the same basis of calculation, there are to be scrapped 68 capital fighting ships, with a tonnage of 1,861,643 tons.

"The naval holiday of ten years with respect to capital ships, as originally proposed by the American government, is to be maintained except for the permission to construct ships as above stated.
"This arrangement between the United States, Great Britain and Japan is, so far as the number of ships to be retained and scrapped is concerned, dependent upon a suitable agreement with France and Italy as to their capital ships, a matter which is now in course of negotiation."

confronted with the problem of searching through the vast city for a resourceful and desperate criminal, a stranger to the people here, and with little to work on except varying descriptions given by scores of people who saw his desperate fight and flight.

The killer, according to descriptions furnished by those most closely connected with the affair, is a young man from 23 to 25 years of age, clean-shaven, stylishly dressed and possessed of a clean-cut, lean face. He is said to be about five feet seven inches tall, weighing about 140 pounds.

While staging the robbery, he was clad in a light gray overcoat and wore a gray cap pulled close over his eyes. It is reported that one of his eyes is slightly out of alignment, and descriptions are that his hair is dark and his complexion light.

Reports from Grady hospital Thursday night were optimistic regarding Mr. West's recovery, and stated that he has at least an equal fighting chance. The body of Mr. Walker was taken to the undertaking establishment of Doneoh & Bazemore, pending funeral arrangements. His wife and parents are in Rutledge, Ala., where Thursday afternoon they were notified of the shooting.

Mr. Walker is survived by his widow, Mrs. Gladys Walker; a little daughter, Alva Virginia Walker; his father, O. K. Walker, of Rutledge, Ala.; two brothers, J. G. Walker, of Macon, and Cason Walker, of Milton, Fla.; and a sister, Miss Allie Mae Walker, of Rutledge, Ala.

Grabs Diamond.
Shortly after 1 o'clock in the afternoon the yeoman entered the store of Nat Kaiser and began examining some jewelry. Apparently unable to make a selection, he asked that a diamond being exhibited in the show window and valued at $2,500 be shown him. This was done and he quickly grabbed it from the hands of the young lady clerk and dashed to the street.

A woman customer screamed. Walker was passing, and, instantly recognizing the situation, seized the bandit by the lapel of the coat and whisked him back into the store.

The thief, fighting like an animal at bay, seemed momentarily cowed by the officer. The next instant a hand emerged from his hip pocket and two shots, fired with lightning-like rapidity, pierced the detective's body. Death, according to witnesses, was almost instantaneous.

The man continued running and again spoke twice, two answers in the Kimball House. There he met Mr. West, who was emerging from the hotel.

Shoots West.
Again the hand went to the pocket, whisked out the already hot revolver, and again it spoke twice, two answers in the Kimball House. There he met Mr. West, who was emerging from the hotel.

Mr. West attempted to seize the man, and it was while grappling that the two bullets entered his body. A private ambulance carried him to Grady hospital.

At West's trial, he pleaded not guilty, and acting like a madman, dashed back and out of the Peachtree street entrance, a number of citizens were in the lobby and saw the shooting.

The shots attracted hundreds outside, some of whom had rushed from the scene of the original shooting in Kaiser's jewelry shop.
Statements made by eye-witnesses of the shooting of Mr. West conflicting slightly, some stating that when the man entered the entrance to the hotel he was carrying a gray cap and he was walking briskly with his hand on his hip-pocket as if in readiness to quickly draw his revolver.

Max Burger, an eye-witness, said that the bandit wore a gray cap and gray overcoat, and that he came running down Peachtree and ran into the lobby.

Had Cigar in Mouth.
W. H. Huff, of 92 Tilden street, said that West's only misadventure in his mouth when he entered the lobby and that he made a lunge at Mr. West when he shot him going down the corridor.

Perry Cline, 19 years old, of 340 South Pryor street, was arrested by officers shortly after the double shooting, and held on suspicion, but was later released because of lack of evidence.

Intense excitement prevailed in the neighborhood as a result of the pistol shots. In a moment following Mr. West's shooting, the huge crowds were drawn into a veritable mob, each man and woman trying to get to the front and secure a glimpse of the principals.

Maintenance of order was impossible, and the fact is directly attributed to the fact of his escape. Several men who saw Mr. West shot down grabbed at the man as he dashed to the street, only to miss and find a moment later upon looking for him on the street that he had vanished into the passing streams of pedestrians.

CRIME WAVE HERE KEEPS SPREADING.

is that most of the crimes being committed at this time are of a petty nature and that conditions generally are better than usual at this season of the year.

"Do you not consider the number of burglaries and thefts reported during the past several weeks as abnormal for Atlanta?" he was asked.
"Yes," was the unhesitating reply. "However, these things come and go at irregular intervals. The present prevalence of thievery may die down at any moment. I believe the present outbreak is caused by arrival in Atlanta of migratory criminals and boys whose minds have been inflamed by lurid moving pictures.

"I have instructed the captains of all watches to warn their men to watch out for these criminals. I do not approve of useless bloodshed, but all men on this force have been ordered to capture burglars and thieves, alive if possible. However, if it is necessary, they are to shoot and shoot to kill."

Negro Con Men Busy.
Hattie Bell Simpson, negress, of 14 North Boulevard, informed the authorities that she was Thursday swindled out of $500 by two negro confidence men.

James L. Respass, of 25 South Gordon street, reported that burglars had entered his home and escaped with a quantity of valuable jewelry, and H. I. Dabney, of 268 Edgewood avenue, and H. T. Pyle, of 80 Bartow street, also reported the loss of jewelry they prized highly as the result of burglary.

In and Around Decatur

BY COLONEL JEFFERSON S. MILLS.

Decatur, Ga., December 15.—(Special.)—C. J. Trivette, constructing engineer, on diverting the overflow at the city waterworks, for the purpose of brightening and lengthening the old dam, discovered that the backwash had undermined the structure where the foundation was not laid on bed rock, that water was coming through and that it was and had been for an unknown period in danger of sudden collapse.

Such hasty provision as was possible was made to safeguard against this danger, but until material can be shipped and put in place, it is stated that only continued good fortune will save the city from a complete shut-off of water supply, as this is delivered into reservoirs by gravity from the impounded water of the dam.

City Manager P. P. Pilcher, foreseeing an emergency, when Decatur might be compelled to call on Atlanta for water, found, on inquiry, that Decatur had at one time a main connecting with the city waterworks, but that this connection had been abandoned without the consent or knowledge of Atlanta authorities, and he was informed by Zode Smith, manager of the Atlanta water department, that this main had been cut at a point which he did not divulge, but which, he stated, was on record. How long it would take to replace this connection is unknown, but presumably it could be done in a few hours.

Uses Large Supply.
Decatur uses about 50,000 gallons of water daily, and the standpipe has a capacity of 80,000 gallons. By improvements, now in progress, a re-supply of 4,500,000 gallons will be provided. The present dam is 90 feet long and 13 feet high. This will be raised to 17 feet, and lengthened to 115 feet. The structure will be built of concrete, and anchored throughout to bedrock.

Decatur's water supply comes from what is known as the Burnt Fork another branch of the Chattahoochee and one-half mile from the city.

Case Not Closed.
The case against Eula Putnam, jointly indicted for murder with Clouther Thompson, the slaying of Ernest Brown, near Wesley chapel, last March, was not closed in DeKalb superior court today, but the law had being drunk on the highway, and offense committed in the Wesley chapel settlement, and subsequent to down town parking places during the day. The touring car of G. A. Radcliffe, of 11 1/2 Baltimore block, was taken by thieves from Carnegie way; the Nash Motors company lost a touring car from the corner of Peachtree and Walton streets; J. F. Lewis and company lost a runabout from a downtown parking place, and N. A. Harris, of 23 South Forsyth street, reported that his touring car was taken from a downtown garage.

Other places victimized by rogues and sneak thieves Thursday, with comparatively small losses, were as follows:

Other Places Robbed.
Residences of W. H. Spratliff, 155 Edgewood avenue; E. G. Foster, 754 Peachtree street; E. A. Fowler, 126 Waverley way; George Abercrombie, address not given; R. S. Lynd, 235 Lee street; Samuel S. Knight, Camp Jessup; E. D. Robertson, 79 East Merritts avenue; a Mrs. Reynolds, 103 West Harris street; S. P. Mann, 300 Orange street; Walter Hargley, 286 West Peachtree street; C. D. Dones, 136 Luckie street; Gordon Lassiter, 190 South Pryor street; offices of M. Kulkie, 610 Transportation building; A. V. Clifton, 411 Trust Company of Georgia building; Floyd Johnson, 411 Peters building.

A negro burglar, Joe Dercott, alias "Black Strap," early Thursday morning was shot to death by Policeman Walt McWilliams. The negro, surprised while burglarizing the store of W. M. Kilgo & Sons, 131 Forrest avenue, attacked the officer with an ice pick and was stopped only after three bullets had penetrated his body.

When Patrolmen Lawson and Floyd were walking their beat shortly after 2 o'clock Thursday morning, they surprised two thieves in the act of taking goods from the store, one on the inside throwing it out, and the one outside sticking it up, preparatory to later removal.

The negro outside fled, but was pursued by Patrolman Floyd, who fired a fusillade of shots, none of which apparently took effect. Then, returning to the store and aware that a burglar was inside, they decided to send for assistance in order to surround the store.

Climbs Over Transom.
Call Officer McWilliams and "Pink" Barker responded to the scene in an automobile. While the other three deployed to surround the place, McWilliams drove his car to the sidewalk and climbed over a transom to gain access to the store.

He discovered the negro in a closet, and, shaking three times after, it was stated, the negro had lunged twice at him with the ice pick.

A large quantity of goods had already been removed to the outside. The identity of the negro who escaped has not been determined, and he is still at large.

Asks for Automobile.
In behalf of a special committee of the police board, Commissioner John S. McClelland appeared before

Alleged to Be Leader Of Auto Theft Gang, Negro Is Arrested

Roy Hardaway, a negro believed to be the leader of a gang of automobile thieves, which has operated in the city, was arrested by Mrs. Detectives Malcomb and Love Thursday morning at the home of his father near Fort McPherson. In addition to being leader of the gang, detectives charge, the negro has eleven automobile thefts to his personal credit, it is alleged. He is believed to have been concerned in the recent robbery of the Prichard Motor company, on Whitehall street, from which automobile tires and other accessories valued at $3,000 were taken, and is the fourth negro to be arrested in connection with this case. It is believed that six negroes were concerned in the Prichard case.

Parties from whom the negro is alleged to have stolen automobiles are Miss Hattie Smith, 278 Lee street; Rice & Hutchins, 90 South Pryor street; J. S. Davis, 36 Washita avenue; Roy McGee, 25 West Peachtree street; E. T. Paschall, 314 Ashby street; Drive-It-Yourself company, 161 Ivy street, and Mrs. H. Davis, 1220 Peachtree street. All the automobiles, stolen between June and August, have been recovered, detectives state.

BUDGET AUTHORITY SPEAKS IN ATHENS

Athens, Ga., December 15.—(Special.)—Chairman John T. Pratt, of the national budget committee, will speak in Athens at the chamber of commerce rooms next Tuesday. Mr. Pratt is a prominent New York lawyer, and has been in the city for several days, on his way to his home in New York.

Delinquent in Taxes.
Less than one-fourth of the $450,000 state and county taxes to be paid in DeKalb county before Thursday was in hand Thursday, according to the DeKalb county tax collector. Only five days are left, it was pointed out, for these taxes to be paid.

Delinquents in this tax will be served with a. fas. December 20, it was declared.

The finance committee of council Thursday urged an appropriation for the purchase of a high-powered automobile, to be used by the police department in combating the crime wave. It is proposed to turn the machine over to four picked men, who will patrol the streets in the dead of the night. The men will be armed with high-powered guns, it is planned.

The committee recommended an appropriation of $2,500 for a car of sufficient size and speed for the work suggested.

"The highest-priced car owned by the police department at present cost $1,000," the commissioner told the committee, "whereas, a half-dozen expensive cars are provided for fire department officials. The fire department uses its cars to prevent loss of property, but the police cars are used for the protection of life."

Police Chief Beavers announced Thursday that the 25 extra men recently provided for the police force for the holiday season will be placed on active duty at once as a precaution against holiday disorders.

Experts on Realty

A request for volunteer speakers from among Atlanta's real estate men to lecture before the real estate class at Georgia Tech on various phases of the real estate business was made by Frank Adair Thursday when the real estate board met at the Capital City club for its last 1921 luncheon.

Mr. Adair commended the work thus far accomplished by the Tech real estate class, which was inaugurated in September. The class is covering all branches of the business, including sales, renting, leases, loans and insurance. The class meets in fourth week for one-hour sessions and includes nearly twenty members of the senior class.

Eastlake Rented Rooms for Nurse State Witnesses

Montross, Va., December 15.—Witnesses for the prosecution testified today in the trial of Roger D. Eastlake, a naval petty officer, jointly accused with Sarah E. Knox, a Baltimore, Md., woman, of the murder of Margaret, on September 30, that Eastlake had rented a cottage at Colonial Beach for the Knox woman as his "aunt," and had taken frequent trips with her.

At the morning session, E. Paul Drinks, Colonial Beach undertaker, testified to the finding of blood-stained garments similar to those worn by a petty officer in the navy, and expressed the opinion the clothing belonged to Eastlake. Richard Tate, of the same place, described his part in negotiations which he said Eastlake carried on in an effort to rent a home for Miss Knox, whom the witness described as having been represented by the defendant as his "aunt." After a house had been secured, the witness said, Eastlake paid the first month's rent, but that Miss Knox thereafter supplied the necessary funds.

Conflicting Testimony.
Efforts on the part of the prosecution to have witnesses describe alleged finger prints represented to have been discernable on the arms of Mrs. Eastlake immediately after her death, proved of little avail, in the opinion of defense attorneys, in view of conflicting opinions expressed. Drinks and E. S. Fitzhugh, an undertaker, testified that such marks were perceptible, while Dr. John Duff, Jr., naval physician at the Dahlgren proving station, testified he failed to find any marks when he examined the body.

In describing the four days' stay of Miss Knox at her home in June, Mrs. John Berry, residing at the proving grounds, said that Eastlake had engaged rooms for the nurse, representing her as his "aunt." Miss Berry said that in conversing with Miss Knox the accused woman referred to Eastlake repeatedly as "her nephew."

Trip on Motorcycle.
Chris Heiniken, Sunday school teacher of Colonial Beach, testified regarding a motorcycle trip he said had been taken by Eastlake with Miss Knox and said the defendant had told him that his frequent absences from home were due to Jiu Jitsu lessons he gave to certain men who had advanced him the money with which he had purchased the motorcycle.

Sergeant W. A. Toler, superintendent of the bureau of criminal administration of Richmond, sent to the scene of the murder by Governor Westmoreland Davis, testified to searching for finger prints on a box containing the children's toys. He said he found nothing but what is technically termed "smudges."

At adjournment of court it was announced by the commonwealth's attorney, Wyatt Mayo, that the prosecution would present all of its evidence at tomorrow morning's session.

Seek Co-operation Of U. S. and States In Legal Matters

Washington, December 15.—Governors of the several states are to be asked to call conferences of federal district attorneys and state prosecuting attorneys with a view to bringing about the greater co-operation between the federal and state legal agencies, Attorney-General Daugherty announced today.

DISGUISED STUDENTS IN HAZING ESCAPE

Wake Forest, N. C., December 15.—Officials of Wake Forest college today are trying to learn the identity of eight students who at 8 o'clock yesterday morning hazed Ralph R. Patterson, a freshman, of Fayetteville, N. C., by binding and gagging him, cutting his hair, blackening his scalp with a solution of nitrate of silver and leaving him tied. Patterson was not seriously injured, although it is said part of his face will be disfigured for several weeks. The hazers wore masks.

When a warrant was made about a month ago to haze Patterson, he drew a revolver and fired on his attackers, a bullet striking a sophomore, inflicting a slight flesh wound. Wake county authorities took the matter and in superior court here this week, Sikes Saunders and Olin Sikes, of Monroe, charged with hazing, and Patterson, charged with carrying a concealed weapon, were tried in connection with that incident. Saunders and Sikes received suspended judgments, while Patterson was fined $50. Saunders and Sikes were expelled from the college.

JONESBORO VOTERS NAME COUNCILMEN

Jonesboro, Ga., December 15.—(Special.)—The result of the municipal election for three councilmen in Jonesboro Wednesday showed the election of I. L. Huie, F. L. Cox and R. D. Blasingame. Mr. Huie led the ticket with 142 votes. Mr. Cox received 130 votes and Mr. Blasingame 135 votes. The defeated candidates were E. H. Waldrop and K. E. McMullan.

SEARCH FOR SLAYER OF 22-YEAR-OLD GIRL

Johnsburg, Pa., December 15.—County authorities today were searching for the slayer of Miss Margaret Warmbrodt, 22 years old, whose body was found last night in the west branch of the Clarion river about half a mile from her home. There was a deep gash on the girl's forehead and her clothing was much torn. A handkerchief picked up near the scene and a man's footprints on the river bank were the principal clues. Miss Warmbrodt has been missing since Monday.

Survival of U. S. Rests on Answer To Labor Problem

So Declares Rail Labor Board Official at Dinner in New York

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, December 15.—The wisdom with which the question of organized labor is solved in America will spell the survival or downfall of the republic, Ben W. Hooper, former governor of Tennessee, and vice chairman of the United States railroad labor board, declared tonight, adding that organized railroad labor and railroad capital has a "public trust" to perform in rendering efficient and uninterrupted railway service to the people of the United States.

Speaking at the annual dinner of the New York Railroad club, at which six other members of the railroad labor board were also present, Mr. Hooper said the price of a rail strike last fall would have "staggered the nation." Railroad labor, he said, has no right morally, at least, to tie up the railroads and destroy the property, business, health and lives of innocent women and children.

But this moral obligation does not mean that organized labor on the railroads should be stamped out as certain sections of public opinion advocated in the October crisis, the former governor said. The problem in this country, he added, "is how to deal with just demands fairly and humanely and how to curb unjust demands and control such activities as threaten public welfare."

Right to Organize.
The right of labor to organize is based on sound principles, recognized by congress and sanctioned by the courts of the land," Mr. Hooper said. "I am profoundly awed when I contemplate the possibilities for evil. If organized labor is to be permitted to throttle individuality, destroy initiative, exact inefficiency, dominate management, limit production, ignore the rights of the public and set up a class government, then is indeed this country headed for bolshevism and death."

"All of these things are the principles, but not the inevitable results of organized labor."

"On the other hand, if organized labor confines its efforts to the legitimate advancement of the cause of the working man by the procurement of a just and reasonable wage, the establishment of desirable working rules and conditions, the maintenance of an increasingly good standard of living and the preservation of the political and civil rights of labor, then will organized labor not only serve its own interests, but it will constitute one of the bulwarks of the American republic."

Calls for Wisdom.
"In my judgment, the survival of this republic depends upon the wisdom with which this question is handled."

Mr. Hooper asserted that if the railroad brotherhoods had been crushed in a strike, other organizations would have sprung up in their stead and probably would not have been animated by motives half so conservative and patriotic as those which control the brotherhoods.

Reviewing the labor railroad situation, the labor board commission said it would be "blind waste of energy" to attempt to return the railroad conditions of a generation ago. Then there was no need of restrictive legislation, but today "social and economic conditions make the railroad problem a challenge to the best minds of the age."

The railroad executive of today must have business brains and energy, must continually deal with governmental agencies and handle sociological and economic questions of increasing difficulty and importance.

Public opinion, Mr. Hooper said, had decreed that as a matter of self-preservation the railroads should be closely regulated and would never subject itself to the risk of having government dominated by either the carriers or their employees.

"It is this regulative function, the commissioner explained, that "this new-fangled tribunal, the railroad labor board," is trying to help fulfill. He told of the difficulties met by the board in starting its work and the momentous problems it was called upon to solve. Only one thing had given the board a soothing feeling of self-satisfaction, he said, and that was "the fine teamwork manifested by the carriers and their employees in 'cussing' the board." This was accepted as conclusive evidence, he added, of the board's fairness and impartiality.

Mr. Hooper explained the board's position in numerous questions which have been subject to public criticism, especially referring to the lack of power to enforce the board's orders. This was evident in the settlement of the threatened railroad strike last fall, he said, when the board was treated to a "shower" of verbal bricks because it violated the quasi-judicial properties of a quasi-judicial tribunal.

"When we saw the public, like a fair maiden, suffocating in the smoke, and lapped by the flames on the twentieth floor of a burning building, and when we unceremoniously grabbed her and carried her down to a place of safety, there were certain fastidious souls who complained because we had indecently mused upon her garments and disarranged her marble wave," the commissioner said.

Has Been Vindicated.
"A few sophisticated and hard-boiled individuals never could believe that I never did promise the brotherhood officers when addressing them, to take something away from the carriers and give it to them, and yet this was true. The men's grandstand adopted by the board, finally averted the strike, merely called attention to the fact that it was premature to start a row about another railroad strike."

The board did not propose to readjust the wages of any class of labor until the rules and working conditions of that particular class had been passed on.

"It was said that the board's memorandum, in effect, closed the door to carriers and employees who might have been ready to meet and wage war on this point. The board has been thoroughly vindicated, because it has already disposed of most of the rules, and it will be weeks and probably months before any petition for a wage revision is filed with the board."

The fixing of railroad wages, Mr. Hooper said, should recognize a living wage that means something more than a bare existence, and also that there is a limit to the ability of a carrier to pay—"that there is no miraculous fountain of inexhaustible gold flowing into the coffers of a railroad."

Railroad industry has avoided any great disaster in emerging from the war and a "magnificent spirit of cooperation" between employees and employer would affect a complete rehabilitation of the country's transportation system, the vice chairman concluded.

In planning this rehabilitation, Mr. Hooper pledged the efforts of the labor board as an instrument of settling peacefully industrial controversies through arbitration.

The meeting is conducted by F. E. Montague, general traffic manager; J. C. Thompson, general supervisor of traffic; John S. Brown, general supervisor of toll traffic; G. D. Garner, force engineer; R. B. White and H. S. Michael.

There will be prizes for the best players.

KIWANISANS TO RAISE 1776 MEMORIAL FUND

Macon, December 15.—(Special.)—Officials of the Georgia district of international Kiwanis clubs, at a meeting here today, pledged the Georgia clubs to raise the remaining $7,000 necessary to the completion of the Georgia bay, a memorial at Valley Forge, to soldiers who fought in this state in the revolution, decided on Savannah as the next meeting place for the Kiwanis clubs, the date to be selected by the Savannah club, with the understanding that the convention be held between October 15 and 30, and elected Rev. G. I. Miller, of Milledgeville, as lieutenant governor of the middle Georgia district, succeeding Frank B. Waterman, of Hawkinsville, who resigned because he is moving to Birmingham.

General Walter A. Harris, of Macon, district governor, presided. In attendance, besides General Harris, were J. Henry Barnett, Macon; District Secretary F. B. Waterman, Hawkinsville, lieutenant governor for the middle Georgia district; Miller S. Bell, of Green, Atlanta, lieutenant governor for the northern district; J. L. Ellis, of Americus, lieutenant governor for the southern district; Miller S. Bell, Milledgeville, treasurer; Arthur L. Brooks, Atlanta; R. L. Saville, Dawson; W. V. Bell, Hawkinsville; Dr. C. C. Harrold, Macon; T. A. Burke, Washington, Ga.; Rev. J. H. Miller, Milledgeville, and Fleetwood Lanier, Athens, representing the trustee from that district.

The trustees left in the hands of the publicity chairman, Dr. C. C. Harrold, the appointment among the twenty clubs in the state, with 1,500 members, the $7,000 for the bay at Valley Forge. Each of the original thirteen colonies has a bay in Pennsylvania in memory of the soldiers who served in the revolution. Georgia's bay has been partly completed, but work was stopped because of the shortage of funds. The Kiwanis clubs will complete the memorial.

The committee on extension reported that the Atlanta club is sponsoring a new club at Jackson and the Vidalia club is sponsoring one at Douglas. It was decided to publish a monthly bulletin to be issued from the office of the district secretary.

The trustees also decided to send Dr. Harrold and J. Henry Barnett to Toronto to the next meeting of the International Kiwanis Club.

Committee chairman from the trustees were named as follows: Business methods, R. S. Wessels, past president, Atlanta; Education, W. O. Donovan, Vidalia; Education, Rev. G. I. Miller, Milledgeville; Grievances, T. A. Burke, Washington, Ga.; Intercity relations, Miller H. Bell, Milledgeville; Law and regulations, T. F. Greene, Atlanta; Public affairs, W. V. Bell, Hawkinsville.

For some time he lived at the De Soto, a popular tourist hotel, in Savannah. During his stay he left no positive evidence as to who he was.

THREE ALDERMEN NAMED IN AMERICUS

Americus, Ga., December 15.—(Special.)—At yesterday's municipal election here, R. E. Allison, W. E. Taylor and J. W. Harris, Jr., were chosen as aldermen, Allison and Taylor being re-elected, and Harris succeeding J. Elmer Poole as a member of the board. There were no opposition candidates, and very little interest was manifested in the balloting.

Alexander Urges College Courses In Race Relations

Chicago, December 15.—Bedroom dramas, unclad femininity, sensational French plays and shows of a similar nature, are all symptoms of "the low moral tone" of metropolitan life, Dr. Howard Agnew Johnson said today in addressing a meeting of the Federation Council of the Christian churches in America.

Dr. Johnson, president of the Chicago Church Federation, urged the churches to a united effort for evangelization of Chicago and other large cities "to wipe away the stains upon morality."

College courses in race relations, particularly in the south, were advocated by Dr. Johnson. Alexander, of Atlanta, Ga., director of the commission on inter-racial cooperation, in an address before the body last night, urged men and women will hear the Gospel applied to race among older persons refuse," Dr. Alexander said.

"The student bodies of colleges should be presented with a consideration of this problem from the conservative viewpoint, and wherever possible the white students should be given the opportunity of hearing the negroes, both men and women, present the question from their viewpoint."

Racial prejudice against the negro has begun to manifest itself in the northern and middle western states, since the migrations have increased negro population there, Dr. Alexander reported.

"It has led in securing the advantages of education for the $12,000,000 negroes, but what has done is only a beginning."

Mortality in institutions for children under three years of age, that was rising in September was running 90 per cent, and in homes for children from 12 to 51 years old, at 75 per cent, said Haines reported.

Dr. Alexander, alluded to above, is a member of the local committee on inter-racial relations, and has been director of the national commission on inter-racial cooperation for a number of years. He was prominent in Y. M. C. A. work among the negroes, and headed the personnel department of the United War fund drive for funds for soldiers agencies.

He gave up a pastorate in Tennessee some years ago to enter Y. M. C. A. work here. He is widely known in Atlanta and is an impressive speaker.

MAN FOUND GUILTY OF SHOOTING OFFICERS

Sylvania, Ga., December 15.—(Special.)—J. A. Bazemore was tried in the superior court here yesterday for assault with intent to murder, charged with shooting county officer on the 21st of last July, found guilty, and was sentenced to two to four years in the penitentiary.

The shooting occurred at Lanier's Hill on the Dixie highway about nine miles south of Sylvania. The officers shot were Clinton Overstreet and Samp Taylor. The officers were looking for liquor, and when they approached the car on top of the hill, a general fusillade started between the officers and the occupants of the car, resulting in the wounding of the two men, after which the car escaped.

BOY'S ARM MANGLED IN MILL ACCIDENT

Toombsboro, Ga., December 15.—(Special.)—While at work at the saw mill of L. E. Thompson, eight miles west of Toombsboro Thursday morning, Leonard Connell, 17 years old, had his right hand and arm badly mangled. The flesh was torn from the first two fingers and the forearm was badly lacerated. About six inches of one muscle was torn out completely and will cause loss of use of the member thus affected.

American Crew Rescued Following Two Days in Boats

The men were taken to Balboa by the Baron Inchausti and are now on their way to San Francisco on the steamship Hawleye State.

Alleged Threats Made by Hatfield Quoted at Trial

Welch, W. Va., December 15.—"If I ever see Lively, the spy, I'll cut him in two with a forty-four," was one of the threats credited to Sid Hatfield in testimony of defense witnesses today in the trial of C. E. Lively, George "Buster" Pence and William Salter on murder charges resulting from the killing of Hatfield and Ed Chambers here August 1.

To that particular threat Chambers here August 1. "If you don't, I will," according to Ernest Gault, the witness who quoted the words of Hatfield. He testified that he heard Hatfield and Chambers making these statements in June while he was on train No. 16. A few days later in Hatfield's testimony of business Gault said he heard during the next year the same traffic they enjoyed during the last would earn but 5.4 per cent.

ASKS CUT IN COAL FREIGHT.
Washington, December 15.—Railroad traffic executives have been requested by Secretary Hoover to reduce freight rates $1 a ton on coal from eastern producing districts to Atlantic ports, in order to allow American producers to meet increasing competition from English coals in American ports.

The request, it was said tonight, was made at a joint session with the traffic officials, coal producers, Chairman McChord, of the interstate commerce commission, and representatives of the commerce department, and resulted in the creation of a committee to investigate the conditions and report next week.

Present rates on export coal from principal producing points to the tide-water range around $2.50 a ton, and Mr. Hoover suggested that the railroads could meet expenses on the haul at the $1.50 rate, although no profits would be realized. American mines, he contended, could meet the British prices and resume production in some cases where shut-downs are now being forced.

"Do you like housework, Bridget?" said the mistress to her new and elderly assistant. "O'pity not lie to ye, mum," answered Biddy. "O! do not; but at the two I'd prefer housework to a workhouse."—Boston Transcript.

Lower Rail Rates Held Unjustified By Rail Profits

Washington, December 15.—Railroad earnings, past and present, fail to justify general decrease of rates, George M. Shriver, vice president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad; Benjamin Campbell, vice president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford, and Thomas C. Powell, vice president of the Erie, testified today at the interstate commission investigation into the reasonableness of the present level of all transportation rates.

Mr. Shriver, however, speaking for all the roads as chairman of the accounting committee of the Railway Executives' association, concluding his testimony, declared that decreases might take place "in the not far distant future." Under the commission's rulings, cross-examination of the three witnesses was deferred until January, when states, municipalities and shippers will be heard.

Mr. Shriver based his conclusions on statistical presentations, to the effect that in the 12 months ending September 30, 1921, earnings of class one roads amounted to $542,400,000, which declared to be but 2.75 per cent on estimated property investment as compared with the transportation net clause providing for a 6 per cent return. In spite of lower costs for wages and materials, he said, roads in the eastern district if given during the next year the same traffic they enjoyed during the last would earn but 5.4 per cent.

Old-Fashioned Election Celebration Is Staged By Waycross Citizens

Waycross, Ga., December 15.—(Special.)—Waycross, Tuesday night, witnessed an old-fashioned political celebration, following the announcement of the election of Dan T. Cowart for mayor. Surrounded by his friends and supporters, and led by the Waycross band, the successful candidate was escorted to the speakers' stand on Parker street, where he mounded the platform with a broom on his shoulder, emblematic of his campaign pledge to sweep the city clean, if elected. Over fifteen hundred people were in the procession which marched to Mr. Cowart's home.

Big French Sales Of Southern Pine Now Under Way

Memphis, Tenn., December 15.—Negotiations are under way for the sale of southern pine interests to the French government of approximately 240,000,000 feet of pine lumber, valued at between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000, according to an announcement at a meeting here today of southern, yellow pine producers.

Under the proposal lumber would be delivered in France at the rate of about $0.000000 feet per annum for the next three years and be used in rebuilding the devastated sections of that country.

It was stated that the negotiations had proceeded to a point of discussion of credit and price, and substantial agreement in principle having been effected.

The proposition made by the lumber interests contemplated the sale of the lumber at manufacturers' mill and the extension of credit for and Pomeroy, of Ohio; and Representatives Hagen, of Iowa; McGlaughlin, of Michigan; Lee, of Georgia; McFadden, of Pennsylvania; Scott, of Michigan; and Steagall, of Alabama. Ex-Senator Gore, of Oklahoma, is also a member of the commission.

It is expected that the Atlanta hearing will be attended by all of these members.

The investigations will cover possible legislation to provide short-term credits for producing and also for marketing the two billion different entailed in whatever system is decided upon.

More attention is being given by congress at this time to the one problem of providing revenues to the agricultural classes, not provided for in either the federal reserve law or farm loan law, than to any other.

Outside of Atlanta, hearings by the commission will also be had at St. Paul and in Kansas City.

SHE SLEW DOCTOR FOR AN OPERATION

She had made a complaint of him, he asserted, and he feared her strange "complex" with regard to Glickstein and her life-saving "inhibitions" would lead to violence, either to herself or to Glickstein.

Charles S. Raizen, the accused woman's husband, said his wife never talked of taking the life of Dr. Glickstein but she talked of suicide.

He expressed belief that his wife's first plan in going to Glickstein's office Saturday was to kill herself in his presence.

On the advice of Dr. Tannenbaum and the police authorities, Mrs. Raizen is being closely watched in her cell to forestall possible attempts at self-destruction.

Calumet possesses the farthest-reaching baking powder economy. It is the most economical leavening agent. It saves in more ways—and makes more important savings than most other baking powders.

You save when you buy it. The price is moderate—it leaves you money over the cost of high-priced brands for purchase of other articles. Costs but little more than cheap powders—far more valuable in quality.

You save when you use it. Possesses more than the ordinary raising force—you use only half as much as is ordinarily required.

You save materials it is used with. Calumet never fails with any kind of recipe or with any kind of flour—always produces perfectly raised, delicious bakings.

You'll notice a great difference when you use Calumet. Calumet produces light, sweet, wholesome, flaky bakings. You will notice with some of the cheaper brands the bakings are soggy, heavy, dark in color, and sometimes have a bitter taste.

Used by leading chefs and domestic scientists, and by more housewives than any other brand. Made in the world's largest and finest baking powder plants.

Best by test. A trial proves it.

The Law Says 16 oz. to a Pound

AGED MAN FOUND BEATEN IN DITCH

Robbery Believed Motive for Attack on Elderly
White Man in Athens
Yesterday.

Athens, Ga., December 15.—(Special.)—Knocked on the head with a bottle and robbed of the returns of a week's work at his little pottery plant at Gillsville, J. F. Howell, an elderly white man, was found by police early Thursday morning lying unconscious in a ditch just inside the Athens city limits. Several pieces of broken glass about his head and on his coat caused the officers finding him to believe that he was knocked in the head with a bottle, and from the congealed puddle of blood in which the man's head was found they concluded the attack was made near midnight. He had a two-inch gash over his left eye.

Mr. Howell did not regain consciousness until near noon Thursday. He stated that he did not remember anything definitely in connection with the incident except that he had a vague recollection of getting in an automobile with some men in front of a local hotel Wednesday night. He said that he had $50 in cash on his person and a check for $8 and when the officers picked him up from the ditch Thursday morning, a $25-cent piece was all that could be found about him.

A farm tenant who lives near the scene of the attack, stated to police Thursday morning that he heard some cursing near midnight in the direction of the place where the man was found and that some one came up to his well and got some water. He did not hear the automobile. Police are investigating the case and four white boys were arrested Thursday afternoon.

The money was turned over to the governor and the governor then issued a warrant payable to the pension commissioner for the money needed to pay all pensions of all classes.

Sam Akew, chief clerk of the pension department, announced that the checks to the pensioners, the payrolls and letters of instruction were placed in the mail by 4 o'clock. It will take several days for the letters to reach all the pensioners in the state. The pensioners will get their money through his county ordinary and not direct from the state pension department.

LIGHTS AND CARS STOP 35 MINUTES

Steam plants at Butler and Davis streets were phoned to immediately get into action and a force of workmen was rushed to the scene of the breakdown. Meanwhile, street cars were forced to halt, and lights and power all over the city were rendered practically valueless from a standpoint of convenience and comfort.

In 35 minutes the steam plants began furnishing current, the crews probably settling a record in firing up and reporting "ready" and with the hydro-electric current unaffected by the breakdown, were able to take care of the entire electric share. Only an hour or so were necessary to untangle the confusion that followed the breakdown of the cables.

OPPORTUNITY NUMBER FOUR

ought not to be working, even in a garden. The doctors have said so. He is an invalid—has been one for years. The physicians say that he may recover with the proper sort of diet and the proper sort of comforts. But diets and comforts are hard to purchase when the money has to be grubbed from a little patch of ground on which the rent must be paid.

Mr. M. is no longer a young man, either. He has a grown daughter, but the grown daughter is an invalid, and it takes every cent of the small wages of her hard-working husband to keep her in food and warmth and medicines. There can be but little help from that source, though the son-in-law does help, and help gallantly, despite the fact that his earnings average just $10 each week.

Wife a Cripple.
Then there's Mrs. M. During the time that she could aid, the little family never wanted. A bustling, economical, industrious, clean housewife, she was. Then three years ago, she became a cripple. Unable to walk, she could no longer even aid in the housework, and this burden was added to the bent shoulders of the husband.

But a few months ago a surgeon performed an operation on her. The operation was successful. The doctors declare that in a few months she will be able to walk again.

Also they declare that she would recover much more rapidly were not her mind and heart constantly burdened with the thought that she was depriving the husband she loves and the child she worships. Mr. M., too, would regain much of his strength, physicians declare, if his financial worries were not constantly weighing on his mind.

Family Is Worried.
That's the condition that the Associated Charities of Atlanta is striving to remedy. Investigators have found the M. family industrious and worthy. As they are living now, their home is not only without the necessities of life, but it is devoid of hope for the future.

The Charities have estimated that $4.50 a week—$215 for the year—will not only pay the rent and provide a diet for the invalid husband and the convalescent wife, but it will relieve their minds of the worry that will enable them to plan for the future, and their plans will assure happiness for the evening of their lives and an even chance for the little girl, who is being brought up in this atmosphere of abandoned hope and despair.

Four dollars and a half a week to bring sunlight into a household that has been in darkness for years.

That's opportunity No. 4.

No one is asked to take all the opportunity. It's big enough to be shared by many.

No contribution is too small.

Certainly no contribution can be too large.

The women of Demorest, who took an active part in the citizens' caucus, also voted in the regular election when it was learned that an attempt was being made to run a "dark horse" at the last moment. The election was a victory for prohibition and law and order. Mayor Prickett was elected for the third time. Two women were put on the board of education. The following officers were elected: Mayor, A. B. Prickett; councilmen, John R. Barrett, W. F. Lawrence, John England, C. W. Stambaugh; school board, Rev. G. S. Butler, Mrs. Amy Flor Phillips, Mrs. J. H. Griggs; treasurer, T. D. Williams.

N., who was killed in an automobile accident near Portsmouth, Va., last Saturday, arrived here Tuesday. Funeral services were held at the Methodist church here at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

WIFE OF OFFICER DIES IN CAR CRASH

CONGRESSMAN'S BODY FOUND IN POTOMAC

Washington, December 15.—The body of Representative John A. Elston, of California, was found floating in the Potomac river late today.

A note found in the congressman's coat said he was caught in "a chain of circumstances which spelled ruin." Mr. Elston, it was said tonight, disappeared Tuesday morning, but was found by detectives that evening. Within a few hours, however, he again disappeared, and that was the last seen of him. It is believed that he plunged into the river late that night. He apparently had been suffering under mental depression, although he had given no evidence of it until he disappeared Tuesday. Upon being found that evening he was given medical attention.

Failure of the government to undertake extensive development of the Alameda, Cal., naval base project was understood to have been a cause of great concern to him, as he had from the first given close attention to this proposed development. Whether other matters pertaining to his district had also weighed upon his mind could not be said tonight, although it was asserted that he had decided not to stand for re-election next fall.

Mr. Elston's hat and overcoat were found on the bank of the river about the time the body was recovered. The note found on the body said: "I am in a chain of circumstances that spell ruin, although my offense was innocent made in the beginning. I hope all the facts come out. My stay means embarrassment to my district, and to a worthy people, clean and generous."

Mr. Elston was elected to congress as a republican from the sixth California district, and had been a member of the house since the sixty-fourth congress. He was born at Woodland, Cal., February 10, 1875. In 1899 he was admitted to the California bar and practiced law in Berkeley until 1903 he became secretary to Governor Pardee. Later he was selected as attorney for the California state board of health, and was a trustee of the California institute for deaf and blind. He was a member of the Delta Upsilon and Phi Beta Kappa college fraternities. He is survived by a widow and four children.

Harding to Tell Senate Results Of Arms Parley

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON.
Constitution Bureau.
Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, December 15.—(By Constitution Bureau.)—It became known today that when President Harding submits the new treaties to the senate he will include an address summing up the net work of the arms conference, and it is also believed he will go more into detail into the proposed association of nations, to which international conditions are rapidly and inevitably drifting.

When the conference is viewed in the light of its finished work the opposition to the treaties embodying the result will be trifling, the administration feels. Senator Borah, it was pointed out today, was careful in his speech on the four-power treaty to say that his final attitude on it would depend on what was done about disarmament and China's rights.

The sudden silence among democrats was based on the same cautious feeling, administration senators said. With a congressional election coming on senators will be careful about criticizing or opposing a program which, taken as a whole, means better world conditions and safeguards for world peace, the administration feels.

G. O. P. chiefs were much interested in the revolt against Senator Underwood's leadership of the democrats, led by Senator Glass, of Virginia. While Glass has considerable support among democrats, who did not like Underwood's leadership on the peace treaty with Germany, it was not believed today that there was any likelihood that Underwood would be unseated as party leader. Neither did the situation indicate that there would be any general democratic uprising against the four-power treaty that would endanger its ratification.

Atlanta Will Get July 4th Date On 1922 Schedule of Dixie Major

Locals Drop Fight Against Martin's Decision Opening Day, April 12

Memphis, Tenn., December 15.—Controversy within the Southern association over the playing of a farcical game here last season between mixed teams of individual players of the Memphis and Nashville clubs and outsiders, which culminated in the filing of a formal protest by the Atlanta club, was adjourned at tonight's session of the winter meeting of the league with the adoption of a rule penalizing any player who hereafter participates in unauthorized exhibitions during the playing season a month's salary and imposes a fine of $1,000 on any club which sanctions such participation.

With the adoption of the rule the Atlanta club withdrew its protest, which asked the forfeiture of all games played since the date of the game in question, and the incident was declared closed.

Another rule adopted tonight provides for a fine of $300 against a club which allows the conduct of its manager or players to result in the forfeiture of a game.

The opening date for the 1922 season was fixed for April 12, with a schedule of 154 games. Fourth of July games will be played at Atlanta, Birmingham, Chattanooga and Little Rock, and Labor Day games to Memphis, New Orleans, Nashville and Mobile.

Southern association club owners and directors at the initial session established by voting to discontinue with the committee usually named to draft a playing schedule, naming in its stead John D. Martin, president of the association, a committee of one to have a tentative schedule drafted for submission to the spring meeting to be held here February 8.

Committee reports also were heard, statistical and financial affairs of the league reviewed, and committees named at the opening session, held behind closed doors, but it was stated no action was taken on proposed rules revisions or the question of furnishing financial assistance to clubs in the smaller cities, the latter problem the subject of much informal debate prior to the meeting.

No Announcements. "We have not progressed far enough in our deliberations to make any announcement at this time," was the way one of the league officials put it as he left the conference room tonight.

Tomorrow's session is expected to determine the action to be taken on measures to aid the smaller clubs as well as proposed amendment of several rules governing the internal affairs of the association, the salary and player limits and the advisability of continuing the "three year" and "rookie" rules. While no official announcement was made, it was understood that these questions came to at least informal discussion today.

Appointments made at today's session included the naming of R. J. Spiller, recently elected president of the Atlanta club, as a member of the board of trustees. Mr. Spiller will succeed Frank J. Reynolds, of Atlanta, as a member of the board.

Mr. Martin announced tonight that Mike J. Finn, of Little Rock, former Southern association manager, and for a number of years an unofficial member of the schedule committee, would be engaged to draft a tentative schedule this year.

It was stated tonight that tomorrow's session, when the major part of the business of the meeting will be transacted, likely would last throughout the day and probably well into the evening.

Knoxville, Tenn., December 15. (Special.)—A freshman football schedule will probably be worked out within the next month by Professor Dougherty and Coach Banks. It will be especially arranged to fill vacant dates in the some schedule of the Tennessee varsity.

Since the S. I. A. A. and the S. I. C. organizations have the one and the same purpose, a freshman eleven is hoped that throughout Tennessee and the south that all alumni and friends of the University of Tennessee will try to persuade football players to cast their lot with the University of Tennessee, as the freshmen team can be one of the strongest in Dixie.

Knoxville, Tenn., December 15.—(Special.)—Several plays have been given the universal basketball quilt and their repertoire of tricks will be increased before the Christmas holidays as several games may be arranged during the vacation period, enough men remain in the city.

The usual fundamentals of the game were indulged in yesterday with a couple of formations and numbers of the squad. The customary scrimmage closed the session.

The squad is beginning to look good, but is far from being a championship quintet. With the rapid development which has been noted in the last few days, continuing the Vols should have no trouble in defeating the local team for Dixie honors.

Captain James, Campbell, Roder, Hatcher and Troutman, the regulars of last year are going good, with James and Campbell showing an improvement 1920 form. Keister and Dean, two freshmen, are showing up as top-notchers and are two of the most promising of the freshmen crop. Collins and Johnston are putting up plucky work for a place on the varsity.

The work of Clemmens, Warmoth and Bean, deserves praise. Clemmens is expected to show as much basketball ability as he did in football.

BUFF WORSTED Morrison Out of A. A. C. Lineup For Opening Battle Saturday

Coach Bean Expects Hard Game Against Clemson Y.M.C.A. Basketball Team.

By CLIFF WHEATLEY. The campaign that supporters of the Atlanta Athletic club confidently believe will bring another southern basketball championship to Atlanta starts Saturday night, when Coach Bean's club will take on the Clemson Y. M. C. A. quintet at the home on Auburn avenue.

On the day before the battle Coach Bean is undecided about the lineup. Yesterday he looked about like Fio Ziegler would try to pick out the prettiest girl in the foliage.

His trouble was entirely in attempting to select the five that would best look after Atlanta's basketball crown. About a dozen expert basketball players were vying for the A. A. C. court, but the coach was up in the air and we don't blame him. Truly, the task is one that would severely test the wisdom of a Solomon.

Coach Bean was more willing to talk about the figures sure to be as good as the ones that would start for the Clemson team. He said that the team would not be in the lineup, and that Johnny Westmoreland was not playing basketball this season. Westmoreland was captain of last year's quintet.

Morrison, elected alternate captain the other night when "Barney" Sullivan was elected captain and alternate captain, is out of the city on a business trip and will not return early enough to take part in the festivities. Scott and Bryan appear to be the best bets at center Saturday night. Scott is a newcomer to Atlanta Athletic club basketball, but some years ago he was a local prep star, later playing at Georgia.

Coach Bean declared that he had decided to start Rufus Bass and Eskew at the forward positions. Both are well known to Atlanta's court enthusiasts, being veterans on the roster of the local championship outfit. These players are showing up in great style, Bean asserted, and should ring up many pointers during this season. The defensive burden is going to be left in the very capable hands of Captain Sullivan, Oliver and Graves. All are old-timers, know the game from every angle and are regarded as the best guards in the south.

LOCALS HARD GAME. If you have forgotten the profound impression the Clemson lads made in Atlanta last season, your memory is not to be compared with Coach Bean's.

"Expecting an easy victory?" declared Bean. "No, I am not, and the players you see over there are not. Neither are the ones that will be expected to play this Saturday night. It took the best we had to defeat them, and we believe they are just as strong this year."

Clemson, on that occasion, exploded a rather large bomb in the camp of the Auburn avenue basketballers. Contrary to the usual custom, no one had taken the trouble to look up the past performances of the Carolinians. No one had thought there was a remote possibility of Clemson having a real basketball team. It is the local team's ambition to walk off this year with this honor. GEORGIA HOTEL MEN OPEN MEET IN ROME

Rome, Ga., December 15.—(Special.)—Fifty members of the Georgia Hotel Men's association met here at noon today for a two-day session, which will include a banquet, addresses and visits to points of interest about the city, including the Berry schools and Shorter college. The luncheon at noon was given by the visitors by Manager Hackett, of the General Forrest hotel.

An address of welcome was made by Chairman E. E. Lindsey, of the Rome city commission, and Grover Middlebrooks, of Atlanta, responded. The routine program was followed during the afternoon, and included reports of officers, appointment of committees and brief talks. The last were made by President W. C. Royer, of the Atlanta Hotel Men's association, and Frank Reynolds, of the Ansley hotel, who spoke of good roads and their value to hotels.

The feature of tonight's session was the banquet at the General Forrest hotel, at which President DeJarnette, of the association, was toastmaster. Judge Moses Wright, of Rome, spoke of problems of the day; Grover Middlebrooks spoke of legislation needed by hotel men; O. W. Donnell, of Columbus, spoke of co-operation between hotel men and the traveling men, and Dr. Craig Arnold, of Dalton, spoke of resort hotels.

Tomorrow's session will include shop talk, a question box, election of officers and a banquet at the Coosa Country club. The hotel men will then go to Anniston by auto and will be entertained there by the Alabama Hotel Men's association at a banquet.

SOUTHERN SHOPS AT KNOXVILLE CLOSED THURSDAY

Knoxville, Tenn., December 15.—Coster shops of the Southern railway this afternoon, and operations except in the roundhouse, are suspended until January 3. Closing the shops means that between 1,000 and 1,200 men will be out of employment for a period of about fifteen working days. Lack of traffic is assigned as the cause. Employees of the roundhouse will continue to work so that rolling equipment of the Southern railway operating out of Knoxville will be kept in good shape. Employees affected are workers in the various mechanical departments, paint shops, coach department and carpenter shops.

NO DECISION YET BY DAIL EIREANN

Sections to it. Some of them object to inclusion of Ireland in the British Empire and some to the privy council as the supreme court of appeal, and there are numerous objections to assuming a share of Great Britain's war debt.

Woman for Treaty.
Dr. Ada English, one of the women members of the dail, commenting on the situation this evening, said: "We need a strong man to get our leaders together. We must have this treaty."

Heated discussions were indulged in before this afternoon's meeting was called, various members of the dail gathering in groups about the corridors of University college. They were so engrossed in their discussions that the meeting, which was scheduled to assemble at 4 o'clock, was not actually called to order until more than an hour later. Even then the members had to be reminded by officers of the Irish republican army that the speaker had called the assembly to order.

BONAR LAW FOR TREATY

London, December 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—The event of the day in connection with the Irish settlement was the decision of Andrew Bonar Law, unionist, former government leader in the house of commons and one of the strong men on the Ulster side, to accept the treaty and if not to invite Ulster to come into the settlement, at all events to counsel acceptance of the boundary commission, which the marquis of Londonderry, in the house of Lords, hinted Ulster might reject.

Mr. Bonar Law had been confidentially relied upon by the "die hards," if he spoke at all, to support Lord Carson in opposing the treaty, or, at the worst, to remain neutral. His speech has taken much of the force out of the Carsonite attack, and is considered to insure ratification of the treaty by an overwhelming majority in the house of commons.

Had he opposed the treaty, there would likely have been an acquisition to the forces of the "die hards," estimated at from 40 to 50, who expected to vote against ratification.

Vote Today Likely.

The vote is expected to be taken in both houses of parliament tomorrow afternoon, and the most important incident in tomorrow's debate is likely to be Lord Birkenhead's reply to Lord Carson, the two men having been closely associated in Ulster's anti-tionism rule campaign.

Winston Spencer Churchill, secretary for the colonies, and Herbert H. Asquith, in the house of commons warmly defended the treaty, the former premier, however, with possibly a remembrance of his own fate in his efforts to settle the Irish question, uttering a warning to beware of "the malignant genius hovering over all Irish affairs."

Viscount Bryce, in the house of lords, made a striking contribution to the debate. He admitted that the treaty was imperfect in form, but contended that England was great enough to try the experiment of throwing the responsibility of its own administration on Ireland.

Wait on Dublin

When the commons adjourned tonight, Austen Chamberlain, the government leader, in reply to various questions, admitted that it was undesirable that parliament should be prorogued before the result of the discussions at Dublin was known; therefore, it might be necessary that the session be carried into next week. But, amid loud cheers, he declined to admit that the house ought to wait for the Dublin decision before voting on the question of ratification. On the contrary, he thought the house ought to express its view without waiting for the dail decision; therefore, the house would sit tomorrow evening as long as might be necessary.

The dail decision is making little progress at Dublin; it again spent the day in secret sessions, discussing controversial points and details, and the discussions will be continued tomorrow. There is no indication when a decision will be taken.

Sir James Craig's official recognition of the treaty has now been published. In his letter, the Ulster premier declares that all the government's pledges to Ulster have been violated and that it seems that Ulster will not be able ever to enter the Irish Free State. Sir James, however, is coming to London, probably to consult the prime minister again, and it is possible that he had knowledge of Mr. Bonar Law's attitude, which may have an important sequel.

CRAIG LEAVES FOR LONDON

Belfast, December 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—Premier Sir James Craig left Belfast for London this afternoon. The official reason given for his sudden departure was that a grave situation was created by Prime Minister Lloyd-George's references to Irish boundaries in his speech to the house of commons in London yesterday.

Sir James, in a letter to Mr. Lloyd-George, says that in a statement Mr. Lloyd-George gave him November 25 the premier promised that Ulster's rights would in no way be sacrificed nor compromised until new proposals had been placed before the cabinet of northern Ireland.

"Therefore," the letter continues, "it is with grave concern that we noticed that an agreement which materially involved Ulster's interests had been signed by his majesty's government without our being consulted. A question vitally affecting our interests is the decision to establish a commission to review the boundaries between northern and southern Ireland."

"There is, I believe, no precedent in the history of the British Empire for taking territory from an established government without its sanction. Moreover, this is a breach of the government of Ireland act of 1920, which was put into operation only last June."

"At our meeting December 9 you complained that it was only intended to make a slight readjustment in our boundary line, so as to bring into northern Ireland loyalists who now are just outside our area and transfer a correspondingly equivalent number of those having Sinn Fein sympathies to the area of the Irish Free State."

Sir James says he reserved the Ulster government the right of dissenting from the appointment of the boundary commission, and he protests against "the declared intention of our government to place northern Ireland automatically in the Irish Free State."

PUT THEM TO WORK.

The mayor spoke the truth when, addressing a group of Atlanta men and women in his office Wednesday, he declared that it is unnecessary "for an army of idle men to walk Atlanta's streets."

These citizens had met to consider ways and means of procuring jobs for the unemployed in this city, of whom, the gathering was informed, there are "more than 5,000."

Each of those unemployed men and women ought to be at work, and with so much work needing to be done as there is in Atlanta, there should be a job for every one of them.

Atlanta is far behind in its work.

It is behind in its public work, such as repairs and extensions of its public facilities, and in work of a private nature, such as home-building, repairs, etc.

This work, both public and private, should be pushed to the limit now while industrial operations are slack, in order that as many idle men and women as possible may be taken off the streets and put in the status of breadwinners.

The man or woman who is out of employment and without means of support is a liability on the community.

In many instances, as the police records show, the jobless man or idle woman is an absolute menace to the public physical and moral welfare.

They have to eat, and they require clothing and shelter; and when they cannot procure those primary necessities by honest toil they get them either at the hands of charity or by violence or by other means detrimental to the peace and well-being of the community.

It is to be hoped that not an hour of time will be unnecessarily lost in starting work on the public improvements contemplated by the $75,000,000 municipal bond issue that was recently voted by the people and validated by the courts.

When that work starts it will, of course, relieve the unemployment situation in Atlanta to a great extent.

In the meantime, private building operations should go forward with maximum intensity.

Repairs and improvements upon private premises, even though the work might be more conveniently done later on, should be made while there are so many good, honest, well-meaning citizens out of employment and verging upon desperation or melancholia because of their lack of means whereby to provide themselves and helpless dependents with the necessities of life during the winter.

The city, county and state governments; the banks; the public service corporations; the industrial operators; the merchants; and every householder of Atlanta could render themselves and their community no greater service just now than by co-operating earnestly and unselfishly and to the fullest possible extent, to this end.

SHOWING GOOD FAITH.

Significant of good faith on the part of Japan in agreeing to the Hughes naval holiday and 5-5-3 war-craft curtailment plan is the report that in anticipation of the proposed reduction of its armed strength on the sea the Japanese government has already retired ten rear admirals who otherwise would have had years to serve on the active list.

This has been done, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington, which goes on to say that the Japanese delegation to the armament conference received advice from their government a few days ago "that 2,000 employees of the Muroran Steel company, which supplies great quantities of steel to the shipbuilding plant of the imperial navy, also have been discharged."

This looks as though Japan means business and is as anxious to co-operate in a general plan of disarmament, and as desirous of peace on a permanent basis, as is the United States, Great Britain or any other country.

The truth of the matter is—hysterical calamity howling of the jingo element to the contrary notwithstanding—Japan, in common with the rest of the civilized nations has had its fill of war, sees the utter folly and horror of it, and wants no more of it; and she is more than willing to go to the full limit of expediency to make the world immune to war for all time to come.

The fact that Japan has taken definite steps in the direction of naval curtailment, even in advance of ratification of the conference agreement by either of the governments by which it must be ratified, is to be binding, if of itself gratifying evidence, not only of Japan's good intentions, but of her confidence that the other naval powers intend to follow suit.

Y. W. Reserves
Request Toys
For Children

The appeal that the three hundred Y. W. C. A. Girl Reserves are making to the children of Atlanta to give toys, not old broken ones but toys that they have played with and love, to poor and needy children Christmas, is meeting a generous response in the hearts of the little fortunate ones as already the reserves, who are school girls themselves, are receiving messages from all over the city from children of their dolls that they are planning to give: wagons, roller skates, mechanical toys, teddy bears, ducks that float, hobby horses, etc., all the kind of toys that all children love. Only the Christmas spirit of remembering little children who might otherwise have to be without any Santa Claus would cause such treasured toys to be given away.

The merchants on the first floor of the Peachtree Arcade are so impressed by the plan of the reserves that they have offered to let the children leave the toys for other children in their store on the first floor of the Peachtree Arcade. Should a merchant have as many toys as his store can care for, he will tell the little children with their gifts to go to his next door neighbor. Daily after school, the girl reserves will go from store to store, collect the gifts and take them to the Y. W. C. A. fourth floor, Peachtree Arcade. The reserves are also asking children for their used clothing as so many little children are needing warm clothing this Christmas just as badly as they are longing for toys.

After all the gifts are gathered together, on Friday night before Christmas, the reserves will take their baskets to the little children to be assigned them by the Associated Charities.

As an expression of appreciation of what the Christmas spirit of sacrifice and giving to others means to the heart of even a small child, on Friday night before Christmas, at 5 o'clock, 150 girl reserves will take part in a Christmas carol procession at the Peachtree Arcade to which the public is invited. There will be no charge nor contribution asked. As a free offering the school girl reserves will sing. It is of interest to note that on the ground floor of the Peachtree Arcade there is a beautiful Christmas tree. A broad stairway leads down from the first floor to the ground floor, with the two balconies on the floors above. The public will stand on the balconies and look down to the ground floor scene.

The reserves, dressed in white and blue robes, will descend the stairway singing carols, bearing their lighted candles. An orchestra will supply the music. All gifts will have been placed at the foot of the tree and after the singing is over baskets of gifts will be taken to the waiting little children.

Miss Maryn Brace, Y. W. girl work secretary, and Mrs. Tom Brooke, a reserve adviser, will assist the reserves in their effort to bring together the little children in their happiness at Santa Claus time.

Mrs. McNaughton
Is Honored.

Miss Mildred Clark complimented Mrs. Evan Lee McNaughton with a luncheon on Thursday, at her home in Atkins Park.

Red roses in silver baskets suggested the Christmas idea, throughout the house, while in the dining room they made a graceful centerpiece. Hand-painted place cards were an attractive addition to the festive table.

Mrs. McNaughton wore a chic blue cloth gown. Miss Clark wore a becoming model of black Canton crepe.

Mrs. McNaughton is a well-known and remembered as Miss Miriam Orr. She is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Orr, at their home on Piedmont avenue.

Benefit Dance for

There will be a benefit Christmas dance at Carver hall Thursday evening, December 22, to help the Old Ladies' Home. A special feature of the evening will be a dance by W. Gene De Reeves, with Miss Betty Aikens, assisting in the Spanish tangos. Also Gene de Reeves will demonstrate the real Frisco. Music by Baisden's orchestra. For Carolers.

Instructions will be given in detail and the costumes and offering boxes will be delivered to the leaders of groups.

Campbell-Murdaugh Wedding
Is Solemnized at Home

The marriage of Miss Theresa Ione Campbell and Lamar L. Murdaugh, of McKee, Ga., was a beautiful event of Thursday evening, taking place at the home of the bride's parents on East Fourth street in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends.

The lower floor of the home was elaborately decorated with southern smilax, palms, ferns and cut flowers. In the drawing room, where the ceremony was performed by Dr. Ashby, the bride and groom stood under a canopy of white flowers, with large baskets of white flowers on either side and tall pedestals with cathedral candelabra holding burning tapers cast a soft glow over the entire wedding party.

Before the ceremony Miss Harriett Small sang "At Dawning" and "Be-cause of Him" accompanied by Miss Maxine Hiles at the piano.

The strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, beautifully rendered by Miss Hiles and Rufus Groover, the bride party descended the stairs. First to enter were Miss Clara Alexander and Miss Louise Campbell. Miss Alexander, who was lovely in a gown of orchid satin, the skirt effectively draped and trimmed with silver.

Miss Campbell wore a beautiful frock of white georgette over satin, the skirt caught at intervals with dainty sprays of pansies.

Miss Annette Pitt wore a lovely gown fashioned of orange-colored Canton crepe, with trimmings of purple grapes. Miss Dorothy Coffin's gown was of silver cloth, with overdraperies of jade chiffon. Miss Dorothy Dorough was lovely in a frock of rose satin. Miss Mabel Campbell wore a frock of turquoise blue taffeta, trimmed in silver lace. The bridesmaids carried arm bouquets of premiar roses.

Miss Inez Campbell, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and wore a lovely frock of coral georgette, with overdraperies of coral lace. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and answonia.

Next came the ring bearer, little Leonora Townsend, dressed as a miniature bride, in a frock of white charmeuse, and the tiny bride veil caught to her hair with a wreath of valley lilies. She carried the ring in a large pink rose.

L. L. Campbell, Jr., of McKee, Ga., acted as best man, and the groomsmen were Lamar L. Murdaugh, of McKee, Ga.; Barry Clark, of Fitzgerald; Lawton Ellis, Jr., of Atlanta; Wright Campbell, Jr., of Atlanta; Clay Ryals, of Atlanta; and William G. Grant, of Atlanta.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS
MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are even just a little deaf, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmit (double strength), and add to it 1/2 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should be open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone losing hearing or who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

Junior Music Club to Hear
Recital by Miss Gilmore

A holiday treat to the Junior Music club will be the recital by Miss Bettie Gilmore this afternoon, when she will play her Italian harp.

There is quite a clientele for this graceful instrument in Atlanta, among the young people, especially, and the skillful handling of it by this young southern artist is calculated to afford a rare pleasure.

Miss Gilmore, whose preparation for the concert stage was done under the leading exponents of the harp in this country, gave delightful proof of her artistry in the concert on Wednesday.

The members of the junior club will be admitted free on presentation of their membership tickets. For others, admission will be 20 cents.

A number of the young people are planning parties, the first of the holiday courtesies for their friends among the boys and girls who are not club members.

BEAUTY CHATS

Steaming the Face.
There is a good way and a bad way to steam the face. The good way will help you to clear fine-grained skin and the bad way will give you only coarse pores and trouble.

The first thing to remember is, not to steam the face too hard or too often. The usual method is to draw a big towel over the head, then lean over a basin of boiling water or even over a kettle from which steam is pouring and to stay in that position until the skin is red hot and the beauty seeker about to suffocate. I have known women who went through this process every day and then wondered why they had dry, coarse pore complexions.

It is quite all right to hold the face over a basin of very hot water, but it should not be kept over it for more than two minutes. That is quite time enough for all the tiny pores of the skin to be opened by the heat and ready to respond to further treatment.

A much better plan, however, is to wrap an old soft turkish towel from hot water and to hold this over the face. It can be put in the water again and held over the face any number of times until your skin reacts and becomes red and moist. This is a gentle method and, personally, I think a much better one.

In any case the steaming should be followed by a massage with some sort of cold cream, a cleansing cream if you are treating pimples or blackheads, a flesh building cream if you are treating wrinkles. Steaming the face opens and clears the pores and for that very reason is drying and must be followed by a cold cream massage. The massage must be followed by some treatment to close the pores, either a rinse with very cold water or water to which an astringent has been added, or else by an ice rub.

There is a bad and a good way to steam the face.

Anxious:—There's no way to reduce the face, except to reduce all over. But if you weigh what you should, the face cannot be too fat for real prettiness. You can make it seem thinner by drawing the hair off the face when you comb it, and by making the knot of the hair quite high on the head.

A. J. C. and X. Y. Z.—A girl 6 feet 4 inches should weigh about 120—

it depends on her age but this is an average. I wouldn't advise using any curling fluids, they may be harmless but it certainly isn't good for the hair to coat it all over with a fluid. Do you think so? Wet it and roll it on kid curlers, this is perfectly harmless and makes a soft wave.

Plans Changed for Dr. Latta's Ball.

Plans have been changed for the elaborate ball to be given Monday evening by Dr. Robert E. Latta, at the Georgian Terrace. Conventional evening dress will be worn instead of the domino costume, as previously announced.

Owing to the date being so near Christmas, and many not being able to perfect costumes in so short a time, Dr. Latta changed his plan and announces that the ball, instead of being domino, will be a formal evening dress occasion.

CHAPTER II.

Would Miss Muriel Lannard look with more favor upon Mr. Henry Livingston Bacon, heir to fifteen million dollars, than she had upon young Harry Bacon, struggling along on $2,500 a year?

This was the hypothetical question which that young man, still staggered by the fact of his inheritance, put to himself as he sat in his room.

Heretofore he could offer her nothing but love and a well established proficiency in pugilism—not a useful asset in married life—but now he could offer a wealth of things sufficiently overwhelming to make even her ambitious mother gasp.

He recalled that lady's chilling politeness. By numberless acts, trivial but subtly expressive, she had indicated her active disapproval of his attention to her daughter.

How would the act now? Would the magic of that huge figure impel her to graciousness? The thought gave him considerable pleasure. He spent some time rolling it around in his mind. He pictured himself gazing into her frigid, unfriendly eyes and saying: "By the way, Mrs. Lannard, had you heard that my uncle has just left me fifteen million dollars?" He wondered what else she would do beside fall off her chair.

It was certainly an impressive sum. Reduced to terms within his comprehension, it was equivalent to 300,000 weeks' pay at his present salary. Much could be done with that amount of money, much good or much bad.

He thought of other rich young men, and decided they used little imagination in the use of their opportunities. Some had been ruined by the destruction of all incentive to effort. Others had plunged madly into the pointless scramble to double their wealth.

Bacon resolved to follow neither. But it became increasingly important that the fact of his sudden accession to money be kept secret. Along that course lay the only hope of success in the plan which was dimly forming in his brain.

The vast power which was now his must be withheld from the knowledge of those whose attitude would change the instant his money eclipsed himself in their minds.

With this plan of campaign, he called up the residence of Mr. E. Johnston Lannard. Miss Lannard was at home.

"This is Harry. I want to see you very much. May I come over?"

"O, I've such a headache. I'm awfully sorry."

"How about tonight? You may be feeling better. May I call you up again later?"

There was a long silence. When she spoke again there was a faint suggestion of irritation.

"What is it, Harry? The same old thing, or something else? You know how mamma feels."

"But this is important—a great secret that I'm dying to tell you."

There was another strained silence.

"O, well—come this afternoon about five."

The receiver was hung up on a young man who had many more things to say. He smiled a little bitterly.

At five o'clock, when the avenue was thronged with aristocratic cars, a second-hand Ford drew up before the stately residence of Miss Lannard.

Harry Bacon leaped out and was soon greeting her jubilantly.

"My car is outside," he announced. "I just bought it today and I want you to be the first to ride in it with me."

Her eyes lighted up. This was interesting!

"Your car, Harry!" she exclaimed. Since when could he afford a car?

"O, it isn't a very grand car," he answered modestly, "but it goes."

"And so do I. I'm dying to see it."

She hurried away and soon reappeared in her smartest hat and coat.

"Let's go up the avenue and through the park," she said gaily.

The Armament Conference and the Red of Victory Were Simultaneously Introduced to the American Public Who Showed Themselves Enthusiastic About Both.

WAS it the visit of Marshal Foch to this country, the calling of the arms conference, or just a natural predilection for red that brought that color forward for public acceptance in the month of November? I am inclined to think that Marshal Foch set the fashion.

They are not confined to the trite light. Red frocks appear in restaurants, red hats dot the streets. Linings show as cloaks swirl. Leather pocketbooks and velvet awing from the arms, red-heeled shoes worn in season and out of season," as Lionel Atwill phrases "The Grand Duke."

No one shade of red has profited shown in this motley collection of clothes. The American colorists their shades hollyhock, bonfire, belline, Persian rose, Bermuda. The French are accentuating with purple glimpses which the Louis XIII; another they call dinal, and always they have Burgundy, capucine.

CHOOSING YOUR COSTUME

CONSULT your figure and face as well as your taste and looks after deciding on a fancy costume you select for the time dance to which you have invited. You may have a poetic toward Pierrette costume, your figure may be of Amazonian proportions. You may be enamored classic drapery with arms so thin such a costume would be painful behold. You may incline to thing Spanish. A very large of women do at present. But remember that the Spanish women is der. Don't imagine for a minute she is buxom or opulent of build the contrary, Spanish women are der, their slenderness amotes sometimes to actual skininess. faces are long, usually, or at least round. To be sure, the high com the high arrangement of the mae over it seems to add length to visage, but there is nothing grous in this, and the high dress certainly goes better with narrow or slender face than with face of rubicund proportions.

In general, the rather stout we can wear such historic costume those of the Marie Antoinette or the mid-Victorian hoopskirt time if properly chosen to go advantage. This is especially true she is tall as well as plump. On woman of petite proportions our attempt at picturesque costume Pierrette costume. Girls' High Seniors to Play Santa Claus For Thirty Deserving Kiddies Next Week

The larger picture shows one of the tableaux in the playlet, "A Bad Boy in Santa Claus Land," which will be presented by the Dramatic club of the Girls' High school, when the seniors sponsor their annual community Christmas tree and entertainment. The lower picture shows two of the students at work in filling the tarlatan stockings which will be a part of the decorations on the festive tree which will be placed in Mallon hall on Friday morning, December 23, at 10:30 o'clock. Photos by Walton Reeves.

BY BESSIE SHAW STAFFORD.
Preparations began in the senior class of the Girls' High school the first of December toward perfecting plans for the community Christmas tree and entertainment in honor of the thirty children who will be chosen, between the ages of 5 and 7 years, as the fulfillment of a community Christmas tree in Mallon hall.

Annual Custom.
This is an annual custom which endears school spirit and furnishes the members of the senior class with a definite piece of work. When a student enters school she is inspired and taught the purpose of training herself for the fulfillment of a community Christmas tree in her graduation year.

As the occasion and planning become more auspicious and grow with the fostering of ideas.
A committee on names, including Miss Annette Granger as chairman, assisted by Misses Sterling Johnson, Melia Miles and Annie Griffin, has investigated and submitted names of the most worthy children in Atlanta who will enjoy this event.

Six dozen dolls were exquisitely dressed and ready on Friday, December 10. Miss Rosalie Wooten, chairman, with Misses Bertha Levison, Lorine Tillman and Minnie Ponder served on the doll committee. One hundred tarlatan stockings, of colorful weaves, have been made and will be filled by the chairman, Miss Marjorie Elchlin, and her committee, including Misses Aline Gardner, Mary Lou Otis and Eugenia Bragg.

Hall Decorations.
Mallon hall will be appropriately decorated and the Christmas tree will be suggestive in every detail of the season and richly hung with presents for each child. Oftentimes the class called upon to furnish clothes for the child to be present at the tree. The decorating committee will consist of Misses Gertrude Mayhew, Helen Bates, Elizabeth Durfee, Kathleen Sawyer, Harriett Perry, Janie Hall, Julia Patton, Louise Grant, Elizabeth Lee, Lorraine McCormick and Margaret Stovall.

There are 134 young girls in the senior class of the G. H. S., with Miss Lillian Hall as president of Mallon society. Miss Louise Lennard is president of student government. Under the direction of Miss Mary Moore and Miss Lillian Hall the Christmas tree and its decorations are being made.

Play Written.
The Writers' club of the school, with Miss Ida Nelson faculty advisor, composed of some twenty-five talented sophomores, juniors and seniors, will provide the one-act play, "A Bad Boy in Santa Claus Land." A group of writers collaborated for this playlet, the chief collaborators including Misses Julia Patton, Florence Smith, Grace Zachry, Beatrice Holzman, Leonora Anderson and Olive Hall, whose purpose has been to create an entertainment especially suited to the small honor guests and filled with action, color and life. Miss Leonora Anderson, president; Miss Beatrice Holzman, secretary; and Miss Julia Patton, program chairman, are the officers of the club.

The Dramatic club, directed by Miss Anabel Horne, will present this playlet. Miss Sophie Horne is president and the group of leaders in the Senior Dramatic club are Misses Beatrice Holzman, Catherine Stanford, Olive Hall and Leonora Anderson. The cast and characters follow:

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

"Were you sorry you went after all?" I asked a friend of mine.

He had gone on a trip on which he had contracted a very bad cold. He had enjoyed the trip very much but the cold had hampered him in his work at a time when he especially needed to be up to the mark.

"Not a bit," he said. "I'm never sorry for things like that. I did because they seemed the best thing to do at the time. It might have been better if I hadn't gone but I couldn't foresee that so that's all there is to it."

He sat silent a minute thinking it over and then added, "I never look backwards. No one can look two ways."

Don't you think that is a pregnant sentence?

And don't you think it helps to explain why that man has in the past few years been forging straight ahead both in the building of material prosperity and in the building of character.

Could you walk down a crowded city street looking two ways?

Could you drive an automobile looking two ways? Maybe you've tried it sometime and came near enough to an accident not to try it again.

Well, no more can you go through to life successfully looking two ways. Absolutely the only way to live a successful life is to live it looking constantly forward.

What is done is done. What is to be done needs every ounce of your being if it is to be done right.

Of course that does not mean that one is not to learn by mistakes. But the people who are forever looking backwards, forever wishing "oh, if I could only turn back the calendar" are not, strangely enough, the people who learn the most from their mistakes. They are so intent on past mistakes that they miss the danger of future ones. They are so weakened by the poison of regret that their judgment is impaired.

The Only Way to Live.
The only way to live fully is to live today, and tomorrow tomorrow, and let the past be past.

He toward the past as the man of Browning's great poem was towards his enemies:

"One who never turned him back, but marched his army forward."
Never doubted clouds would break.
Held, we fall to rise, are baffled to fight better—
Slip up to "wake."

The Mortgaged Wife :: By Mildred Barbour

INSTALLMENT NO. 2.

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY.
Jeanne Dare, known in the little town whence she came as plain Jane Dare, has set herself up in New York as a wealthy woman in the hope of securing a rich husband. In this effort she is making use of Richard Canby, well-known man about town.

A Past Not Too Remote!

Jeanne Dare, lying luxuriously curled against the pillows of her chaise longue, her nostrils filled with the scent of her cigarette, mingled with the fragrance from the perfume burner on the table, could fairly sense the odor of steaming cabbage that memory evoked from the past.

In the scene she had deliberately summoned the girl in the unfashionable clothes and muddy boots, who was herself, opened the door of the nondescript frame house in the little Iowa town where she had lived and was immediately enveloped in odoriferous steam. It was pleasant, lying here in all her luxury, to live over again scenes such as the one she was acting to herself now.

"Cabbage again!" she thought disgustedly. "Ugh!"

The hall was dark except for a feeble stream of light that issued from the open dining room and at her first step she trod on Baby Fred's cat.

"Damn!" said Jeanne, audibly. Its yowl of distress was cut by a reproachful voice from the parlor:

"Jane! Must you swear when the children are within hearing?"

A snigger came from a dim corner under the hall stairs.

"Jane sounded just like papa when he fell off the stepladder," little Gertrude confided to little Edwin.

"If you'd ever stop trying to economize on lights," grumbled Jeanne as she pushed open the door to the parlor.

Her aunt and a woman neighbor were sitting in the twilight before the open fire.

"Good evening, dear," Aunt Emily greeted her with the gentle tone of one who makes the best of a situation. "Come and say 'good evening' to Mrs. Jones."

"How do you do?" Jeanne threw the older woman a careless nod. "Did my books come today, Auntie?"

She added hesitatingly:

"All those magazines and things must be very expensive. Don't you think it would be better if you bought some books on school teaching instead of that New York society trash? Maybe you might get promoted to third grade when the next teachers' examination comes up."

"These books are all I live for," replied Jeanne sharply, gathering up the packages. "I hate school teaching!"

She departed, leaving Aunt Emily to catch Mrs. Jones' eloquent eye and sigh with the air of one bearing an overwhelming burden.

"Since Jane's parents passed away and left her to her uncle Charles's care it has been a trial, Mrs. Jones, a great trial! Even the minister, dear man, has tried in vain to help her."

A Tempestuous Meal.
Half an hour later dinner was announced. It was done by the colored maid-of-all-work coming to the kitchen door and bawling:

"It's ready!"

The ensuing scramble for the dining room sounded like the approach of a gallop of a company of artillery. It was the numerous small offspring of Aunt Emily and Uncle Charles achieving their assigned places around the family board.

Jeanne came in when the soup plates were being removed, a periodical tuck under her arm.

"Jane," Uncle Charles spoke sternly "you're not to look up."

"Yes," I meant to be. I hate bean soup," and, opening the magazine, she began to read.

Mrs. Jones, the guest, spoke up firmly:

"It seems to me you hate a lot of things for a young girl. Is there any thing you like?"

"Yes," she replied, "I like my eyes."

"Yes," To be let alone!"

Charles Junior guffawed loudly and immediately bent his water-slicked head over his plate at his mother's gentle look of reproach.

Little Gertrude giggled.

"Jane went for a ride with Henry Harrison in his flivver at recess today," she volunteered in a singsong voice, sucking her spoon.

Jeanne waved aside a large cup of tea the slovenly servant was setting before her.

"I'll have coffee, please."

"Why, Jane," protested Aunt Emily "It will keep you awake. Besides, you know we never have coffee for dinner."

"Is there any particular reason why we shouldn't have?" inquired Jeanne turning a page.

"Well—Aunt Emily looked timidly at her servant.

"Ain't but three spoons of coffee in the house. That don't leave none for breakfast," said the autocrat of the kitchen.

The matter was dropped.

The telephone on the wall rang three times. Charles Junior sprang up with alacrity to answer it.

"If that's Jimmy Fane, you are not going out tonight," began his mother.

"Aw, Mama—Hello!" Charles Junior spoke sulkily into the transmitter. Then "It's for you, Jane."

"Excuse me," murmured Jane as she laid aside her book and napkin and rose.

"You didn't step on my foot?" protested Mrs. Jones, opposite, "I guess it was the table leg." Jane's remark, gleaned from an article on table etiquette, had been lost on the guest.

"Yes," Jane spoke into the transmitter with a quick upward inflection like a caught breath.

Aunt Emily looked meaningfully at Mrs. Jones and the two exchanged an amused smile. Little Gertrude began to imitate Jane's "yes" in an audible aside.

"Keep quiet. I can't hear!" Jeanne commanded, her hand over the mouthpiece.

Little Edwin giggled.

"It's Jane's beau, Henry Harrison! It's Jane's beau, Henry Harrison!" he sang into his pudding, beating time with his spoon.

Jeanne waited impatiently until the refrain had subsided, then she said:

"Now I can hear. What did you ask me? . . . Yes, I think so. . . . At eight? . . . Very well. . . ."

"Are you going out again tonight?" inquired Aunt Emily petulantly.

"I am," replied her niece, returning to her magazine.

"Don't you ever have any examination papers to correct?"

"No."

"Well, in my day, a school teacher—Aunt Emily was beginning.

Jeanne laid down her magazine.

"Please understand, Auntie, that I am not a school teacher. Temporarily I am holding down the chair of instructor in Grade B. I shall resign it at the earliest opportunity."

"Gee, has Henry popped?" Charles Junior's eyes were bright with curiosity.

A Matter of Business.
Without deigning a reply, Jane rose and passed out of the dining room. The dignity of her rebuke was somewhat marred by the unfortunate cut, who once more entered unwarily in her path.

"Do you really think they are engaged?" inquired Mrs. Jones eagerly.

"Henry's a bright young man. He's just been made assistant cashier at the bank. They say he likely makes almost a thousand a year."

Jeanne was waiting on the veranda when Henry Harrison's mud-spattered flivver drew up at the curb. Henry climbed awkwardly out from under its flapping curtain. He had expected a tender greeting, he must have been vastly disappointed, for Jeanne's first words were:

"I want to talk business to you! Drive around a few blocks before we go to the movie."

Once in the car she said briskly:

"Henry, how much money have I in your bank?"

He shook his head.

"Dunno. I'll have your account balanced tomorrow."

It Jeanne's brows were drawn into thoughtful lines.

"And there's Dad's insurance," she said, as if thinking aloud, "and that old tract of land down beyond the railroad. Henry," she turned to him briskly, "how much money do you think the bank would lend me with that as security?"

"Dunno," he replied again.

"For heaven's sake, is there anything you do know?" exclaimed Jeanne in exasperation.

He nodded.
"I know I love you—and I want to marry you."
The telephone, under its fluffy Dresden cover, tinkled discreetly, and Jeanne's reverie was dispelled.
She reached out a slim bare arm and picked up the instrument.
"Yes?" the upward inflection, the caught breath!
"Mr. Canby is on his way up," said the hotel operator.

Sergeants of Marine Corps To Play Santa Claus Today

Two sergeants of the marine corps, both veterans of severe fighting overseas, will play the roles of Santa Claus Friday and Saturday at the City Auditorium. They will distribute candy and prizes to children attending the showing of "Little Red Riding Hood" by the Atlanta Woman's club.

The veterans will appear in full uniform, wearing the fourragères and medals recording their service. Although members of different outfits, they have virtually identical experience. Sergeant B. W. Craft saw 20 months' service with the Second division, taking part in the Belleau wood fighting, the smash through of Foch at Soissons, and in the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives. In addition, he saw service on the Champagne front and in Germany with the army of occupation. His buddy, Sergeant Wil-

Ham A. Stiles, was with the Fifth division. A trifle reluctant at first, when the unwelcome duty at the Auditorium was suggested, the two recruiting sergeants finally accepted the invitation of Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, chairman of the club committee in charge of the film presentations.

Bicycles, dolls, footballs and baseballs will be given away to the visitors. Candy will be distributed to the first 1,000 children arriving Friday and Saturday. The Friday performance will start at 3 o'clock, and the Saturday showing at 1 o'clock. Both will continue throughout the afternoon and evening, the final performance beginning at 9:30 o'clock. In addition to the films, there will be dances by pupils of Miss Lucille Wells' dancing classes.

Miss Miller Is Honor Guest.

Miss Elizabeth Richardson entertained at a bridge luncheon Thursday at the Piedmont Driving club in honor of Miss Elizabeth Miller, a charming bride-elect of December.

The guest of honor was presented with a silver bud vase and the prize for top score was an artistic piece of French tapestry. Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock. The table was decorated with a French basket of yellow chrysanthemums and unshaded yellow candles.

Miss Richardson wore an afternoon frock of blue satin and a squirrel-trimmed hat. Miss Miller was gowned in black crepe metror, combined with green. Her feather-trimmed hat was also green.

The guests included Misses Miller, Jettie Mae Herrington; Mesdames Fred Hubble, Fred Thomas, Charles Williams and George Wright.

Griffith-Dobbs Wedding Invitations.

Mrs. Mary B. Griffith has issued invitations to the marriage of her daughter Mary Butt, to John Henry Dobbs, on the evening of Thursday, January 5, 1922, at 8:30 o'clock, at 488 Peachtree street.

Mrs. Ross Honor Guest.

In compliment to Mrs. Aldis Ross, the guest of Mrs. A. H. Hutchinson, Mrs. Thomas Morgan entertained at a tea at the Piedmont Driving club Thursday afternoon.

Roman hyacinths, yellow chrysanthemums and ferns made a picturesque centerpiece for the table at which ten intimate friends were assembled.

Christmas Carol Service At Presbyterian School.

Friends and patrons of the North Avenue Presbyterian school are invited Friday, December 16, at 12 o'clock, to the annual Christmas carol service.

This service has grown to be one of the most beautiful and distinctive features of the life of the school. The freshman class at the high school will this year light the candles, telling in Scripture the message of the light of the world. Then follows a responsive service of carol and verse and, in the soft gleam of the candles, the young voices bring the Christmas story.

Solo parts are taken by Miss Sara Mathews and young Charles Johnson and Joy Glenn, under the direction of James Alderson, choir master of the Central Presbyterian church.

Service Men Are Entertained.

William Fisch directed a committee from the Atlanta Woman's club, who sponsored a dinner and program for 160 former service men, their wives and friends, at the fifth district headquarters training center, United States Veterans' bureau, 444 Peachtree street, Wednesday evening.

The entertainment was the holiday party contemplated for some time by Nicholas M. Bowder, director of the center, for ex-service men who are taking vocational training.

The Atlanta woman's club aided financially in providing the entertainment, adding to a fund already started by the young men who are taking the training. The Witches' club, the Ladies' Aid society of the First Christian church, and other organizations aided.

In charge of entertainment with Mrs. Fisch were Mrs. T. D. Stevens, Mrs. J. D. Wirick and Mrs. J. M. White, president of the Witches' club.

Miss Hazel Whitney, Samuel Marks, Miss McMillan, Mrs. Crowe and Mrs. R. W. Guinn were the talented artists appearing on the program.

DESTINY

BY CHARLES NEVILLE BUCK
(Copyright, 1921, for The Constitution).Next Week,
"The Fighting Shepherdess," by Caroline Lockhart.
Starting Next Sunday.

An ambulance came with much clanging of its gong; and when they examined him at Bellevue, searching his pockets, they found some letters and Mary's memorandum.

So they learned his identity, and sent a telephone message to the theater—to be followed, a half-hour later, by a second, announcing that life was extinct.

While old Thomas was making his dash for the top of the stairs at the elevated, the landlord, followed by a physician, tapped on the door of the room; he had left—and receiving no response, went in.

Swiftly the doctor labored, and as the powerful hypodermic worked, the old woman rallied a little, and her lids wavered and opened. Her eyes wandered about the place, and she spoke with a feeble voice.

"Where are my children—my boys and my girl?" Elizabeth Burton's face suddenly became a face of terror, and her eyes dilated.

"There is no one here just now," the doctor spoke as soothingly as he could.

"I remember," she said, while she shook with a sudden realization. "I remember—they're all gone." Her gaze traveled around the squalid room, and realized what that meant, too.

"Yes," she said, striving to rise and falling back. "I'm dying—alone—abandoned—in this attic!"

Her eyes closed. The physician sat with his finger on the pulse and then bent his ear to the breast.

"We have nothing more to do," he announced briefly.

Mary Burton's act ran twenty-five minutes, during which Mr. Lewis and Mr. Smitherton stood together in the wings. Mr. Lewis rubbed his hands.

"I ask you, Smitherton," he inquired, "could we have arranged it better if we were running the world—first-page stories again tomorrow in every paper in town? We'll have to hire the Hippodrome."

"First-page stories? What do you mean?"

Lewis looked at the young man, and enlightened him. "Oh, I forgot you didn't know. Well, the girl's mother is dead, and the old man's just followed suit in a pauper's cot in Bellevue. How's that for heart interest? You're a reporter. I ask you, will they feature that on Park Row? Will they, I ask you?"

Smitherton caught him violently by the arm and backed him against the wall. His own face was suddenly pale.

"You withheld the news and let her go on? You did that?"

Today's Short Story

BY GEORGE T. BYE

Illustrated by Arlene Coyle

Silent Charity

Much against my will they persuaded me to accept the chairmanship of the annual campaign for cheap coal for the poor. We had made our preliminary announcements, and a first few subscriptions had dribbled in, which we promptly gave out to the newspapers. In making the daily comparisons with the contributions of the preceding three years, the secretary of the committee called my attention to the consecutive remittances of $100 by John L. Peterson, Ellyria, Ohio.

"Good for John!" I exclaimed, and we thought nothing more of it that day.

When the matter of regular publicity came up, I called for the scrap books for our organization, which go back forty years, to see what had been said in the newspapers in the past. I was busy with clippings for a year in the 80's when my eye was startled to light upon:

John L. Peterson, Ellyria, O. $100. He had subscribed the first week giving the particulars to the newspapers.

"Good for John!" I exclaimed.

The story appeared all over the country, and after a lapse of a week I received this letter, postmarked Ellyria, and written by Phillip Scanlon:

"I am a very old man and you must excuse my delay. The newspaper boys have just found out from the postmaster that John L. Peterson's mail comes to me, but I am reserving the details for you."

"He was my uncle. He died in January, 1891. The subscriptions made in his name are from his estate, and are made to give perpetuity to his name as a public benefactor."

"While Uncle John was serving with all his heart and soul in the civil war, his investments in Ohio property soared in value, even during war time, so that when he was mustered out of service he was many times a rich man."

"He loved the whole country so much that he decided to devote himself to national benevolence on a large and conspicuous scale. He opened an office for keeping track of charitable campaigns in every part of the nation, and set aside regular amounts for annual contribution, the total running into many tens of thousands of dollars."

"His will provided that I should take on this duty, and my appointees after me. His instructions have been obeyed to the letter, but I can hardly say—would you?—that he has achieved any fame as a generous giver? Yours was the first inquiry that has ever been made about Uncle John. Tomorrow—"Wellington Fields, Detective."

Victory Bonds Make New High Record

BY R. L. BARNUM

New York, December 15.—A new high record for all time was made today for the Victory 4-4s bonds and for the Victory 3-4s, and the Fourth Liberty 4-4s made a new high record for the year. The stock market while at times during the early trading, held strong and late in the day developed activity with prices advancing. While professional traders were working for lower prices during the past week it became evident that there were no stocks for sale. The sudden upturn in Mexican Petroleum day before yesterday indicated that the shorts could easily be run to cover. Late today the pools working for higher prices started to run in the shorts and predictions were common that the upward price movement was to be resumed.

Today's most interesting news development was the sale of $7,323,000 bonds at a premium to $100.00, and the sale of $85,000,000 New York City 4-13 per cent stock at 103.40 or on a 4.35 per cent basis to a banking syndicate made up of J. P. Morgan & Co., Chase Securities Co., the First National City Bank, the National City Bank, the Guaranty Trust Co., the Bankers Trust Co., Brown Brothers and Harris, Forbes & Co. It was understood that the bonds last named would be offered to the public by this syndicate around 105 or on close to a 4 per cent basis. This is a better price than the price received back in 1917 when bond prices were considered high. At that time a banking syndicate purchased $400,000,000 City 4-12 per cent stock at 107.50 and sold it to the public at 101 3/4 or on a 4.42 per cent basis.

The expected reaction in the discount rate of the federal reserve bank here did not come late yesterday as had been predicted in banking circles. However, it is believed the cut will come shortly after the turn of the new year and that with easier money bond prices will continue to advance.

New York, December 15.—Yesterday's advance was followed by reactions in the cotton market during today's early trading, but prices firm up later on talk of a better spot demand. January advanced from 17.10 to 17.20, and the market held steady to 17.20, with the general list closing steady, net 3 points higher to 4 points lower.

The market opened steady at an advance of 5 points over December, but generally 3 to 7 points lower, owing to disappointing Liverpool cables and less favorable reports from Manchester. Active morning demand from 10 to 20 points net lower during the morning, with December touching 17.50 and March 17.31. Offerings were comparatively light, however, and the market became firmer during the afternoon on reports that a New England buying agent was in the Memphis market for 7,000 bales; that New Orleans had sold 5,000 bales for export, and that inquiries for spot cotton were being received at northern points from Boston. No trade buying of importance was reported around the ring here, and business remained quiet, but there was covering by early sellers, who had been disappointed by the failure of the decline to bring out a greater volume of liquidation, and with a scattering commission house demand, sent prices about 5 to 14 points net higher, with December selling at 17.75 and March at 17.50. January was relatively firm again today, and the official cables showing only about 65,000 bales in the local certificated stock, confirmed yesterday's reports of a moderate decline in the market.

One of the private cables received here from Liverpool said prices advanced early on continental buying, but later eased on selling by Manchester, and there were reports of a dull trade in cloth in the Manchester market, with some low price sales by weak holders. Reports from the domestic goods market said the tone was weaker, but that demand continued light.

NEW ORLEANS LIFTS TO SMALL ADVANCES
New Orleans, December 15.—From moderate declines in the early trading today, the cotton market was lifted to small advances, mainly on the steady demand from better accounts from the spot department. After trading 17 to 22 points under the closing level yesterday, there was a recovery of 17 to 25 points to 14 points, but the close had no decided results, net changes ranging from one point up to six points. January was 16.82 and closed at 16.71.

Poor cables resulted in a sagging opening, but even in the early trading the market was steadied at the decline by reports from Texas of a better demand from, and some little business doing, with Boston mills. Telegrams from Memphis said that both New England and Liverpool were in that market with fairly large orders, and a little later it was said that one of the largest spot firms was quietly picking up shorts here.

In the late trading vague rumors of unfavorable textile trade developments were circulated, and they had the effect of paring down the small gains that had been established, but no aggressive selling was done. Claims of light spinning this last period were something of a support to the market session through.

STOCKS ADVANCE TO HIGHER LEVEL

New York, December 15.—On a turnover approximating one million shares, the stock market today moved very generally to higher prices. The main reason for the advance was the general feeling of confidence in the market, and the fact that the market was well supplied with orders.

The market opened steady at an advance of 5 points over December, but generally 3 to 7 points lower, owing to disappointing Liverpool cables and less favorable reports from Manchester. Active morning demand from 10 to 20 points net lower during the morning, with December touching 17.50 and March 17.31. COLQUITT FARMER DIES IN MISHAP WITH SHOTGUN

Moultrie, Ga., December 15.—(Special.)—With a shotgun lying nearby, the body of J. P. Herndon, prominent Colquitt county farmer, was found near his home in the Berlin district today. Coroner Barber held an inquest and the jury returned a verdict saying that Herndon "came to his death from a self-inflicted wound and that same was an accident."

Mr. Herndon on leaving his house asserted that he was going into the woods to drive up some cattle, adding that he would carry his gun in the hope of killing some birds. A fence was near where his body was later found by school children on the way home. The gun was lying between the body and the fence. One barrel had shot Herndon's body near his head.

Members of the family said his affairs were in good shape and that they were certain his death was accidental.

KIRKWOOD MAY BE MADE PART SOON OF ELEVENTH WARD

Kirkwood may be consolidated with the eleventh ward, instead of being made into a separate ward, it was reported Thursday at the city hall. Mayor Key, at an informal conference with members of council, urged that all ward lines be rearranged to provide for the addition of Kirkwood to the city.

J. R. Nutting, one of the councilmen who conferred with the mayor, will introduce in council Monday a resolution authorizing a committee to make a survey of the ward lines and make plans for their revision.

Kirkwood voted to merge with Atlanta, that the new territory would be a twelfth ward, but the present plan of city officials is to have the suburb made a part of the eleventh ward.

PROPOSED SALARY INCREASES DENIED BY FINANCE BOARD

The finance committee of council Thursday declined to approve salary increases for city employees for 1922. Increases in salaries of policemen, firemen and other municipal attaches had been proposed, and if put into effect would mean additional expenses in the sum of approximately $350,000.

"As things now stand," Alderman Chosewood, chairman of the committee, said, "I am against a salary increase for any person connected with the city department. I feel sure it is a very important time to take up a matter of this character."

New "Hamlet" Is Presented Atlanta by Walter Hampden

Walter Hampden, noted Shakespearean, hailed over the nation as the successor to Booth, made his first appearance last night at the Atlanta theatre. His high reputation caused the assemblage of an extraordinarily large audience. His work was greeted by a sustained attention and prolonged applause that gave fitting tribute to his artistry.

Unlike most actors playing Shakespearean repertoire on the road, Mr. Hampden did not avoid the issue by making his premiere in one of the bard's lighter offerings, or in a near-classic that might appeal to popular taste. He stakes his all on his "Hamlet," and with a "Hamlet" that departs far from traditional handling, Mr. Hampden's Melancholy Dane is a virile personality, a poet who can be stirred to deeds of blood and iron—and quickly and resolutely stirred. His treatment is just as plausible as it is novel, just as effective as it is daring. Certainly, Atlanta has never seen a "Hamlet" more surcharged with human impulses.

And the audience responded to the human appeal. At the close of his scenes with the ghost, with the players and the king, and with the mother, Mr. Hampden was called to respond to certain calls after curtain call, and there was no semblance of claqué in the demands made by the audience.

A scholarly reader, with perfect enunciation, Mr. Hampden's work is marked as epoch-making by the flexibility of his voice. He can tune it
